

your attention to the fact that $3,500,000 worth of assets acquired during the Wilson administration for the purpose of progressing the war were turned into cash in peace time by the succeeding Republican administration and no credit given on the Wilson side of the ledger. This is the secretary of the treasury admits in his annual report.

Mellon Cited as Proof.
"The annual report of the secretary of the treasury for the year 1927 shows that if it had not been for the assets left behind by the Wilson administration there would have been deficits in the years 1923 and 1925 and very substantial reductions in the surplus in the years 1924, 1925, 1927, and 1928."

"We would never learn this from the political bookkeeping of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Mills, or the Republican national committee. But, by contrast, when you are painting a false picture, overlooking a little item like $2,600,000,000 is not of much consequence."

Now it is Coolidge's turn, and Al turns on this blast of sarcasm:
"Let us go first into the office of the great apostle of economy, the President himself, and we find that in 1921 the executive department, limited to the office of President and Vice President, cost the people $210,000. In 1927 that figure moved up to $688,000."

Cities District Government.
"Let us take the District of Columbia, which is a city run by the federal government. In the first year of the Harding administration it cost the people of the country $21,921,000. In 1925, it jumped to $40,458,000, almost 100 per cent increase."

"If Coolidge's economy has reduced the cost of government, it should be reflected in the expenditures in the various departments of government."

"Let us take all the departments of the government and we will find an increase in expenditures in 1927 as against 1924 of about $200,000,000, and the appropriation acts of 1928 so far signed by the President show that expenditures for this fiscal year will be greater than in 1927."

But it is in the matter of postal site economies that Al is particularly withering. By way of pointing his reference to the Chicago situation, he says:

"Let me put into this picture exactly what is going on in the government at Washington with respect to property acquired for public buildings. Bear in mind that when the government acquires property for public use it is immediately lifted out of the taxable values of the community. That is in its nature. That means that if the government acquires a plot of land in any city, town, or village, the municipality loses the tax revenue of that piece of land. Consider what a waste it is not only to the city but to the government itself to have parcels of land standing idle for years with no buildings on them."

Brings Up Reinforcement.
After getting over his Chicago thrust, Al reinforces it with another case in point.

"In the city of Pittsburgh, Pa.," he says, "the government expended $3,077,000 for a site for a postoffice. The postoffice is designed to cost $4,425,000; and this year they appropriated $300,000, not sufficient to make any kind of a start on the building. In the meanwhile they are paying $172,000 a year rent, and losing in addition $95,000 a year which the assistant postmaster general testified could be saved in the operation of the post office when the new building is completed."

All this goes big, though a majority of the land purchases for public buildings he cited were purchases made in the Wilson administration. The speaker pours statistics by the bucket over the receptive minds of the democracy of central Missouri, and byplay of interjections, by whimsicalities, he makes his statistics engaging. His references to the cost of the new roof on the White House and to the increase in the Vice President's salary are two of those aides.

Wins Biggest Laugh.
He takes up the charge of the Republican national committee that he is not fair when in his accusations of Republican extravagance, he fails

Governor Al to Arrive in Chicago Tonight; for 3 Days He'll Be Whole Political Show

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York takes possession tonight of the Chicago political stage. For three days he will hold it apparently without challenge from anybody. The tendency among Republicans as well as Democrats seemed yesterday to be to make way for him and let him have the front page and most of the newspaper space without contest.

As previously announced, the Democratic Presidential nominee will reach the Chicago Union station about 9:45 o'clock this evening, the exact time of his arrival depending to some extent on what happens during his stops at Springfield, Bloomington and Joliet as he comes up from St. Louis. From the moment he appears he will have the undivided attention of everybody here who is interested in politics.

G. O. P. to Take a Rest.
There was a jest among the Republicans that they would try to hand the Great Zepplin here as a counter-attraction when the New Yorker speaks Friday night, but they admitted that what they actually will do will be to give their publicity departments a rest during his visit.

Next week, however, Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state, is scheduled to come to Chicago for an address, according to an announcement from Republican national headquarters at Washington, D. C. The announcement said Mr. Hughes will speak here on Wednesday, after an address on Tuesday at St. Joseph, Mo. He will follow Gov. Smith on his trip through the middle west.

Hullabaloo Plans Wait on Al.
A question has developed for Chicago Democratic leaders as to just how far Gov. Smith will go in leading himself to circus stunts as an aid to his campaign in these parts. Seemingly he is classified as "bologna" the original plan of having a lot of red fire and brass band stuff when he comes in tonight, and there is still a question whether he will agree to showing himself on a preannounced schedule.

to deduct from his comparisons and his contrasts the $300 increase in the Vice President's salary.

"I didn't overlook that," says Al. "I didn't overlook that, and for the sake of Joe Robinson, I wish it was $300,000. But what is $300,000 when you are attempting to explain an increase of two billions?"

Then the aside on the White House roof, and it wins the most gigantic laugh Al has won since he started campaigning. Thus that aside goes: "He further said that I overlooked an enormous expenditure intended to make the White House a safe place in which to live. Well, I found no fault with that appropriation. I am entirely satisfied that that appropriation be made, because if there is a man in the United States today who wants the White House made safe, I am that man."

Thereupon the central Missourians from center to circumference. This is a jovial meeting. Missourians love a political rally as Italians love a performance of grand opera. The Missourians of Sedalia and parts adjacent have been rallying in this coliseum since morning.

Senator Hawes Does the Honors.
United States Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri introduces the nominee and in doing so contrasts him in tonight, and there is still a question whether he will agree to showing himself on a preannounced schedule.

"One of them," says the senator, "writes an essay; the other speaks out frankly. One is a bureaucrat; the other is a Democrat. One is an essayist; the other is an analyst." (This word is analyzed.—J. O'D. B.)

The governor begins in his favorite and always effective strain of the good neighbor visiting the home folks. Why does he like Sedalia? he asks. Well, this morning when he rode through the streets and met the good people he couldn't quite make out why he through the parks and boulevards to-morrow or the next day.

There are some things he can't escape even if he wishes to. For example, a large delegation of Chicago men and women will leave the city at 11:30 this morning to go to Springfield as an advance guard of the welcoming hosts. Their car, it is expected, will be attached to the Smith special and come into Chicago as a part of it.

Among the Welcomers.
In this group are William H. Rehm, W. G. Biard, president of the Chicago and Alton railroad; D. F. Kelly, department store head; Edward N. Hurley, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank; Alfred S. Austrian, Probate Judge Henry Hornor, Maj. John S. Miller, Col. A. A. Sprague, George F. Getz, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, national committeewoman for Illinois, and her predecessor, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

The much larger reception committee at the union station will include delegations from all the regular Democratic ward organizations and the independent Al Smith clubs organized under the direction of Carter H. Harrison.

"We shall escort Gov. Smith by way of Jackson boulevard and Michigan avenue directly to the Blackstone hotel," said the spokesman, Thomas F. Donovan. "There will be no parade but getting his party there will constitute almost a parade because of its numbers."

65 Newspaper Men in Party.
"That, by the way, is to me one of the jokes of the campaign. Some of the Republican newspapers have commented on the size of what they call the candidates' 'entourage,' when, as a matter of fact, it is due almost entirely to the newspapers themselves. We have been notified that there are sixty-five newspaper men traveling with him. Naturally we presume that the newspapers they represent are paying their fares and other expenses and Gov. Smith cannot be accused, merely because of their presence, of carrying an immense party with him."

"That there are sixty-five newspaper men traveling with him. Naturally we presume that the newspapers they represent are paying their fares and other expenses and Gov. Smith cannot be accused, merely because of their presence, of carrying an immense party with him."

felt so at home. But now he knows. He found the reason in the evening newspaper.

It is because Sedalia was founded by a Smith and got its name from the first name of that founder's daughter. "So that is why," says he, "that I felt so at home from the moment I got here."

This Blarney Goes Big.
This blarney is extremely felicitous, because Mrs. Sarah Smith Cotton, aged 86, whose pet name among the pioneers of these parts was Sedie, not Sadie, is still living in Sedalia and is the most venerated person in Missouri. When the pioneers wanted a name for their new settlement they chose the first syllable of little Sedie Smith's pet name.

"So the lucky Al Smith is as lucky as ever when he leads off his extremely statistical speech with that reference to Sarah Smith Cotton, the idol of this town."

From that point onward all the statistics go down like sugar pills.

pers and news associations insist upon having their men with the governor as proof of the great public interest in his candidacy. I believe this is the greatest number of staff men that ever traveled with a nominee.

And we know the newspapers try to give their readers what the readers want."

Gov. Smith's program for tomorrow and Friday morning and afternoon has not been determined because the local leaders do not know what engagements he has made for conferences while he is here. But it is understood that a large number of delegations from mid-western and western states, including groups of farmers, have sought appointments with him during his visit.

Invited to Visit Universities.
Invitations have been sent to the nominee to visit both the University of Chicago and Northwestern university, and it is possible that stops will be made at the two institutions if Gov. Smith takes the proposed automobile tour of the parks and boulevards.

The candidacy of Floyd E. Thompson, Democratic choice for governor, received a decided boost yesterday when the Decatur Herald, one of the oldest and most influential downstate Republican newspapers, editorially urged his election to complete the housecleaning at Springfield begun last April.

The old crowd plans to go back," read the editorial. "Len Small alone will be out of the picture. Lou Emerson naturally will have the support of the Small machine. It is a grudging tribute to say that Emerson would make a better governor than Small has been. Thompson would make an infinitely better governor than either."

"The Herald has never supported Len Small. It was the hope of this paper that it would have the opportunity of supporting a Republican who would be the farthest removal from Small. The Republican voters named a former close associate and a former business partner of the present governor. The Herald does not have to follow them."

Smith is neighbors with a community of which 24 hours ago he did not know so much as the location.

Again he utterly disarms the audience when, in ridiculing Gen. Lord's story of how the government saved $20 by selling some spoiled seal meat for cash bait, he makes the words "seven barrels of spoiled souse seal shoulders."

"Spoiled souse seal shoulders," he repeats, then adds: "Now that is not so easy to say."

Flood Central a Telling Point.
One of his serious points—and most of the points he makes in the address are serious—the one that arouses the most enthusiasm in his plea that the federal government defray the cost of Mississippi river flood control and the finale to that passage is really very vigorously expressed.

"The flood waters," he said, "should be harnessed so that they can be made to work for the American people instead of working against them."

"The Republican administration," he declaims, "is looking for a great deal of credit for bringing relief to the flood sufferers and effecting a cure for floods in the future. While the Mississippi flood control bill authorized an appropriation of $25,000,000, it actually appropriates only $15,000,000. The rest is to be passed along to the next administration. Instead of trifling with the situation we should at once begin our great drainage system under control."

The versatile orator pauses to shed a tear over the poor Indian and incidentally to get in a home thrust at Dr. Hubert Work, in these words:

"Last May Dr. Work, then secretary of the Interior, issued to the public a report which shows that, owing to neglect by the federal government and failure to make adequate appropriations, the Indian wards of the government are rapidly dying of disease due to the low standard of living. In the schools for Indian children the average spent per child for food was as low as 9 cents a day and malnutrition was evident."

"What has Dr. Work got to say about this today, when as head of the Republican national committee he is a party to the false picture of economy in the fall of the year, when the Republican party is seeking a return to power, and one of its severe critics when he is talking as the head of the great department of the interior?"

Soldiers' Turn Next.
Then Al quotes from the public hearings on the army housing situation and repeats the secretary of war's warning that:

"I have not hesitated to say quite frequently that I think the conditions almost amount to a national scandal."

"What does Mr. Hoover think of that kind of economy?" he asks. "He should not pass that question along to Dr. Work. The American people are entitled to know from his own words whether or not he approves of an economy that starves Indian children and fails to provide adequate housing and proper eating and sleeping quarters for the American soldier."

For Al's immediate purposes the title he gave this address, "Coolidge Economy," was unfortunate. His ridicule of Mr. Coolidge by name was never cheered, while his ridicule of Indian children and failure to provide adequate housing and proper eating and sleeping quarters for the American soldier.

The fact seems to be that already Uncle Calvin has become a cherished tradition with the American people, and that even in Democratic Missouri he should not pass that question along to Dr. Work. The American people are entitled to know from his own words whether or not he approves of an economy that starves Indian children and fails to provide adequate housing and proper eating and sleeping quarters for the American soldier."

From the smallest city on the route of his speech making for the presidency, the nominee travels in the morning to the second largest and will reach Chicago about 10 o'clock to-morrow night.

2 EX-GOVERNORS TOSS BRICKS AND BOUQUETS AT AL

Mrs. Ross, Kentuckian Present Their Views.

Gov. Al Smith yesterday was handed the campaign equivalent of bricks and bouquets by two former governors, one feminine and a Democrat, the other masculine and a Republican.

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, formerly governor of Wyoming, took occasion of a hall and farewell visit to Chicago on her way to fill a speaking engagement at Kankakee last night to denounce the "whispering campaign" she alleges Republican supporters have been waging against the Democratic candidate.

"Every day of this tour," she said, "I feel more and more like a crusader. The Republicans, instead of doing the sporting thing and confining their attacks to Smith's record, are against him personally because of his religion and on the theory that he wants to bring back the saloon. Nothing could be further from the truth."

"The prohibition law has not been enforced. Gov. Smith proposes either to enforce it or to seek a method of modification that will end the present situation."

Members of the Women's Roosevelt Republican club yesterday attended a luncheon at the Congress hotel at which Edwin F. Morrow, formerly governor of Kentucky, challenged the St. Paul address of Gov. Smith, in which the nominee asserted that the Republican party lacks leadership. He also criticized Democratic policies and Democratic administrations, predicting an era of hard times if Gov. Smith is elected.

"We are asked," he said in reference to the tariff, "to replace the doctrine of Republican protection with the doctrine of Democratic competition that will work our destruction. Republican leadership has stood for the creation, fostering and upbuilding of American industry by and through a protective tariff. Democratic leadership has stood for free trade, and the destructive and leveling slogan, 'Buy American.'" where you can buy cheapest, and sell where you can sell highest."

"The women of America are going to see to it on election day that their champion, Herbert Hoover, is chosen to lead this nation forward."

Referring to the unprecedented registration of woman voters in Chicago, Michael L. Igou, Democratic leader, declared that it augured well for the Democratic cause.

"Last April," he said, "women were in the van of that mighty army that delivered such a blow to the Thompson city hall machine that it was practically extinguished. They will be at the forefront of the coming election ready to complete the job which they started in April."

A pumping station at 35th street and sewers will be constructed by the sanitary board, while the city will construct $10,000,000 in connecting lines. The ordinance was presented to the mayor by Ald. GERMAN OFFICIAL RAPS "BOORISH" RECEPTION IN U. S.

Passengers on Zeppelin
Slugged, He Charges.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—(AP)—A scathing criticism of the behavior of the "American police" on the landing of the Graf Zeppelin at Lakehurst is contained in an interview with Albert Griesbach, Prussian minister of the interior and a passenger on the Zeppelin, made public here today.

"Had occurrences like those witnessed taken place in Prussia, these police officials would have been fired the very same day," he was quoted as saying. "On leaving the airship, which the passengers were permitted to do only after hours of waiting, they had, to their surprise, to go through several unpleasant experiences. They were surrounded by a cordon of police and led into the customs building as though they had intended to smuggle. In so doing the American police showed manners which amazed the passengers."

Charges Use of Force.

"Several times they were yanked and frequently pushed—in fact, one of them was struck in the face by a fist. Among those thus treated was also German Consul General Lewinski. "Anybody who knows America knows that the reprehensible attitude of the police was not due to evil intentions, but must be explained on the ground of inadequate schooling. The police, as is constantly evident on the sailing of sea vessels, are easily inclined to assume toward foreigners menacing their country the role of a laughing superior."

The minister also expressed himself as deeply displeased with the ovation accorded the Graf Zeppelin by the American people.

Eckener's Wife Honored.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The joy of the people of Friedrichshafen at the safe arrival of the Graf Zeppelin in the United States was still in full swing today. Popular enthusiasm, seeking an outlet, centered upon Dr. Ludwig Durr, the dirigible's constructor; Frau Eckener, and the wives of the crew members. Bands of celebrators sang through the town stopped constantly before the homes of these and gave them impromptu receptions.

Dr. Durr was carried on the shoulders of his admirers amid shouts of "Hoch," while Frau Eckener was congratulated not only on her heroic husband but also on her heroic son, Knut, whose fearlessness in helping repair the damaged port horizontal was extolled.

"I knew that they would get over," said Frau Eckener, "but she seemed ill at ease at the fuss she made over her."

Says Spanish Firm Leases Ship.

MADRID, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Jorge Loring, counsel for the Spanish Transatlantic company, today confirmed the announcement made yesterday by Col. Emilio Herrera, one of the passengers aboard the Graf Zeppelin and government representative in the Spanish company, that the dirigible had been leased to the Transatlantic company for a period of two years.

COOLIDGES PLAN BREAKFAST FOR ZEPPELIN CHIEFS

winds we went far south, covering nearly twice the distance of the direct air line. The little mishap in mid-ocean, the details of which you are familiar with, is only proof to further demonstrate the great safety in Zeppelin ships. This trip is intended to be the first of a series that I hope will bring still closer together the two great nations, the United States and Germany."

Mayor Walker, who was in Washington on city business, wired his regrets and immediately left by train for New York. He arrived in time to take part in the theater party.

Some Paper Blizzards.

Crowds on the sidewalks were four deep everywhere the Germans passed and there were minor paper blizzards along 5th avenue, but it was in downtown New York where the air was white with torn telephone books, newspapers, and ticker tapes. Early tonight it was announced by officials of the street cleaning department that the paper storm was second only to the confetti shower given Col. Lindbergh.

The Graf Zeppelin men were nervous on their way down from Lakehurst. Most of them still were tired, for they had slept little the first night of the big gas ship, but the welcome revived them and early tonight they seemed in high spirits.

Five Days to Repair Fin.

Before leaving Lakehurst Dr. Eckener saw that work had begun on the damaged fin of his dirigible.

The entire stretch of fabric covering the lower side of the fin was loosened and much of it had been ripped away by the Atlantic squalls. Most of the topside fabric was missing.

U. S. DIRIGIBLE BACK AFTER FLIGHT TO TEXAS LEGION MEET

Scott Field, Ill., Oct. 16.—(AP)—The RS-1, largest semi-rigid dirigible in the world, arrived home here late tonight, approximately 35 hours after leaving San Antonio, Tex., where the craft went for the American Legion convention. No trouble to the dirigible was reported on the homeward trip.

The dirigible was in charge of a crew of 16 men under command of Capt. William Kepner, winner of the 1928 Gordon Bennett balloon race, and left Scott field a week ago to take part in the aerial maneuvers at the convention. Strong winds were encountered last night.

The torn fin, was the object of special interest both on the train and during the New York reception.

Coming across the Hudson on the Macomb the flyers' ears were pounded by the clamor of tugboats and ferry whistles. Three navy planes swooped low over the decks and high above them three other planes played among the rain clouds.

Call New York Beautiful.

"Ach, there, now—it's New York. I have seen it before, but always it is beautiful."

Dr. Eckener was talking above the clamor of the bells and whistles. "When are you returning?" he was asked.

"We will sail back in ten days or two weeks," he replied, "but we shall return."

About 75 per cent of the passengers who crossed over on the Zeppelin have reserved accommodations for the return trip, according to Ernst Brandenburg, undersecretary for aviation in Germany, and one of the dirigible's passengers. Scores of others have applied for transportation, he said.

Aboard the special train and taking part in the New York reception were the Germans' American hosts: Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, Capt. E. S. Jackson, commanding officer at Lakehurst; Lieutenant Commander Rosenbuhl, captain of the Los Angeles, and other Washington and Lakehurst officials.

BORAH CARRIES HOOVER CAUSE TO HEART OF DIXIE

Pleads with Women That Dry Law Is at Stake.

Salisbury, N. C., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Carrying the presidential fight of Herbert Hoover into the traditionally Democratic state of North Carolina, Senator Borah of Idaho, in a speech here tonight, called upon the women voters to prevent the overthrow of prohibition by electing the Republican candidate.

Suddenly changing the program of his campaign trip, which follows roughly the line of the recent tour of Governor Smith, the senator late today accepted an invitation of Salisbury Hoover supporters to make a brief speech while traveling to Charlotte. He previously had planned to make only one address at Charlotte tomorrow night, but after his arrival there he motored to Salisbury, forty miles northeast of Charlotte, to deliver tonight's speech.

Law's Fate Rests with Women.

The senator at the outset congratulated the women of the nation upon their "activity and their leadership in this campaign."

"Without the women and their influence and leadership," he declared, "the eighteenth amendment would never have been written into the constitution, and without the women and their leadership it can not be kept in the constitution and enforced."

Senator Borah reiterated his charge that the Democratic presidential nominee desired to "tear down" the prohibition law and said that Smith in his Milwaukee speech proposed "to destroy the effort which you women have made to protect the American home."

Purpose to Wipe Out Dry Law.

"No one can read that speech," Borah said, "and doubt the purpose behind the fight in this campaign." The senator added that John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Pierre Du Pont, a Smith supporter, also "left the Republican party" in order to "wipe out prohibition."

"There never has been a law upon the statute books," Borah continued in reference to big liquor control, "that the liquor traffic has not opposed and fought it and violated it. This is the old fight in another form on a broader scale and means a million times more than it ever did before."

"Speaking for myself and myself alone, I sincerely declared that I would rather see my party go down in defeat, and the dust of defeat, than to see it temporize or cowardly betray the constitution of the United States. It is in the constitution, and it was put there through your effort and I want to see it upheld and enforced."

Borah Visit Held Important.

The visit of the Idahoan is regarded as probably one of the most important invasions of the Republican party into the "solid south" in a national campaign in many years and as a result a coast to coast radio hookup has been arranged for the Charlotte address tomorrow night.

The speech at Charlotte will be delivered in the Auditorium, but amplifiers have been installed in three other halls in the city to take care of anticipated overflow crowds.

CHICAGO PUSHES PLANS TO GREET ZEPPELIN CREW

Although lack of a mooring mast will prevent a landing of the Graf Zeppelin in Chicago, plans for the entertainment of Dr. Hugo Eckener, his crew, and passengers were being carried on actively yesterday.

The committee in charge of the reception of the visitors hopes that the airship can be moored to the mast either at Selfridge field, Detroit, or at the government field, Belleville, Ill. It has been suggested that airplanes could carry the guests to and from these points with small loss of time.

Dr. Eckener was apparently enthusiastic yesterday over the prospect of a trip over the middle west. When he was asked if he set a date for his arrival here, he replied:

"I can only say we are going to fly there before we go home. Some time next week we hope to visit Pittsburgh, Akron, Detroit, and Chicago."

George Getz, chairman of the mayor's committee, and Ernest J. Krueger, representing German-American societies, were notified yesterday of the mast difficulty by Harry Vissering, the Zeppelin agent in the United States.

He telegraphed that the dirigible would be taken to Washington and Philadelphia on Thursday and Friday. The later trip to the middle west might result only in a flight over Chicago, he added, because of lack of facilities.

The city council at its meeting tonight will be asked to instruct the corporation counsel to draft an ordinance for the erection of a mooring mast.

ONE KILLED, ONE HURT WHEN AUTO HITS FOUR GIRLS

One of a pair of sisters was killed and another critically injured last night when four girls, walking with linked arms across Elverson boulevard at Ward street, were struck by an auto driven by Baxter Selbert, 25 years old, 6820 Morton street.

The dead girl is Pauline Kipper, 14 years old, 2816 Ward street. Her sister, Veronica, 17 years old, was bruised. Eugene Hart, 15 years old, 2626 Ward street, suffered a fractured hip and was taken to the Chicago General hospital. Eugene's sister, Marie, 16 years old, was slightly injured.

Four other deaths yesterday due to traffic accidents raised Cook county's 1928 motor toll to 778. The other victims were:

Henry Galvin, 62 years old, a laborer, 5433 West 43d street. Fatally injured when knocked down by a taxicab at South Halsted street near West 52d street. Peter Guskiewicz, driver of the cab, was held.

Mrs. Mary Maros, 65 years old, 26 East 24th street, Chicago Heights, died of internal injuries suffered Thursday night at Thornton. Her daughter, Evelyn, 18 years old, driver of the car, was killed in the accident, and her husband injured.

Eileen Graves, 25 years old, 4726 North Kenton avenue, died of injuries suffered Monday when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by another car at Crawford avenue and Irving Park boulevard.

Try to Make a Messinger Employee Mad

It can't be done! The customer is right—always—even if he is dead wrong. But a Messinger employee would sooner admit error than offend a single patron, even if the employee be morally right. That is part of the training. However, it is largely morale, Esprit de Corps... call it what you will. It's the spirit of Messinger's Service.

"Your employees are most courteous. They seem to truly represent an endeavor to please. All that I have come in contact with are kindly, helpful and considerate. They move rapidly, but always seem to find time to see that I am well taken care of. And when good food is served by deft, courteous hands, then I really enjoy my meals."

DOWNSTATE POLL SHOWS INCREASE IN HOOVER LEAD

New Straw Indicates He Will Win by 400,000.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A canvass of Illinois downstate shows it is much more Republican now than when the Tribune's first straw vote was taken last July. The straw vote indicated that Hoover was favored for the presidency by a majority of 171,000 theoretical votes.

The present poll, accounting for straws from two dozen cities and villages, indicates roughly that Hoover's lead will be in excess of 400,000.

When the first downstate poll was taken, Al Smith had spoken on no issue except prohibition. At that time Mr. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, deemed Illinois so hopeless from his viewpoint that he located the Midwest headquarters in St. Louis, where he thought he had a chance of winning Missouri.

Smith in State Today.

Since that time Mr. Smith has spoken on the tariff, farm relief, immigration, water power, prosperity, and several other issues of the campaign, including religious toleration. Now, with the straw votes indicating his defeat in Illinois by more than twice as much as before the campaign started, Mr. Smith returns to the state today to remain for three days.

Perhaps he can render some aid to local Democratic leaders in putting over their county ticket, but his most ardent supporters have never claimed that he can carry Cook county for himself by 400,000. It necessarily follows that Smith's hope of winning in Illinois has been completely dashed.

The difference between the July and October polls of this Tribune shows vividly a swing from Smith to Hoover. Just after the Houston convention a straw vote was taken in Peoria. It showed 516 votes for Hoover, 330 for Smith, and 15 for Thomas, the Socialist. Yesterday another poll was taken in the city known for its distilleries before Volstead, which showed 245 straws for Hoover, 133 for Smith, and three for Thomas.

Cities Change Allegiance.

The first poll of Peoria last summer showed 118 straws for Hoover and 172 for Smith. Yesterday Peoria gave 57 straws for Hoover and 31 for Smith—a reduced lead. Kankakee last July registered 166 straws for Hoover and 233 for Smith, while yesterday Hoover got 84 straws and Smith 53. Quincy last July polled 237 straws for Hoover and 280 straws for Smith, but yesterday this same city cast 135 straws for Hoover and 128 for Smith.

It is not suggested that the polls were accurate representations of sentiment in each individual city either last July or at present, but experience with straw votes has demonstrated that a comparison of the straws in a dozen or more cities grouped together indicates the trend for and against candidates. The following cities were polled last July and also yesterday: Peoria, Mattoon, Rockford, Pekin, Galesburg, De Kalb, El Paso, Pontiac, Bloomington, Rushville, Mount Sterling, Quincy, Kankakee, and Wataska.

Last July these cities cast 2,468 straws for Hoover, 2,510 for Smith, and 68 for Thomas.

Yesterday these same places cast 1,395 straws for Hoover, 831 for Smith, and 15 for Thomas.

Hoover Gets 60.38 Per Cent.

Putting it on another basis: Last July these cities and towns gave 48.92 per cent of their straws to Hoover, 49.73 per cent to Smith and 1.35 per cent to Thomas. Yesterday these same communities gave Hoover

1,500 OF ALL G. O. P. FACTIONS AT LUNDIN DINNER FOR STRATTON

More than 1,500 persons turned out last night for the testimonial banquet in the Palmer house arranged in behalf of William J. Stratton, Republican candidate for secretary of state, by Fred Lundin. Most of the speakers paid personal tribute to Mr. Stratton and then devoted themselves to promoting the Hoover cause.

The audience presented a strange mixture of Republican factional representatives. There was, for instance, Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, who explained that he had come merely in consideration of his duty as a citizen to "look over the candidates."

There was William H. Malone, chairman of Len Small's tax commission, a bitter opponent of Emmerson in the primary campaign, who announced his endorsement of Emmerson. There was Dr. John Dill Robertson, Lundin's majority candidate, who said in his speech "the harder you fall the higher you bounce." Other speakers and members of the audience included Virgil Rohn, Lundin's nephew; John G. Oglesby, David H. Jackson, Senator Earl R. Geary, chairman of the meeting; the Rev. Jacob Pister, Chester Cleveland, Sol Westerfeld, Alexander Pyffe, Judge Harry B. Miller, Peter Lambros, Speaker David Shanahan, and Emil A. W. Johnson.

60.36 per cent of their straws, Smith 39 per cent and Thomas seven-tenths of one per cent.

Hoover's estimated lead of more than 400,000 in the territory outside of Cook county was not based upon the straws from the above dozen cities alone. The poll of yesterday embraced twice as many communities. A total of 3,124 straws were collected. The following summary of the poll shows not only the straws obtained by each presidential candidate, but also indicates the number who voted for Coolidge, Davis, and La Follette in 1924.

| Candidate | Hoover | Smith | Thomas | Totals |
|-------------|--------|-------|--------|--------|
| Coolidge | 985 | 258 | 0 | 1,243 |
| Davis | 68 | 205 | 0 | 273 |
| La Follette | 49 | 72 | 8 | 129 |
| Blacks | 857 | 813 | 9 | 1,679 |
| Totals | 1,909 | 1,148 | 17 | 3,124 |

This table, in comparison with the final summaries of polls in Indiana and Wisconsin, indicates clearly why Hoover is so strong in Illinois and Indiana and relatively weak in Wisconsin. Of the 1,243 persons who voted for Coolidge in 1924, 79.24 per cent indicated that they will vote for Hoover this time and 20.76 per cent said they will switch to Smith. Of the 273 Davis votes of 1924, Smith retains 81.77 per cent and Hoover gets 18.23 per cent. By the same process, the 129 La Follette followers of 1924 are split in this straw vote, 55.81 per cent for Smith, 37.59 per cent for Hoover, and 6.2 per cent for Thomas, the Socialist.

In Wisconsin the La Follette percentage for Smith is larger and in Indiana smaller.

A straw vote also is being taken downstate on candidates for governor and United States senator. This poll will indicate whether they are running better or worse than their party's presidential candidate.

Weideling and Traeger Run for Sheriff; Both Experienced

A man with a strong claim for recognition as a thoroughly trained peace officer is the Republican candidate for sheriff, George H. Weideling. The claim is based on his record during twenty-seven years in the Chicago police department and two years in command of the county highway police.

The candidate looks like a sheriff. "Direct as a West Point graduate, he stands a little over six feet tall, with broad and square shoulders, flat stomach, and narrow hips."

John E. Traeger, ex-sheriff, ex-cop, ex-city controller, ex-city collector, and ex-city treasurer, is the Democratic candidate for the office of sheriff that he held from 1914 to 1918. He is 69 years old, born on Nov. 13, 1859, in a house on the corner of Randolph and Union streets.

Mr. Traeger's first public office was collector for the town of Lake, from 1897 to 1899. In 1900 he was elected coroner, the only Democrat on the ballot who did not go down with McKinley's defeat of Bryan. He was coroner at the time of the Iroquois theater fire, the St. Luke's sanitarium disaster, and the Doremus Sunday school tragedy. In his work on these cases, Mr. Traeger introduced many safety measures, including the steel curtain for theaters, and the unlocked fire escape rule.

Elected City Treasurer.

In 1907, Mr. Traeger was his party's nominee for city treasurer, and again he enjoyed the distinction of being the only Democrat who was elected. In the office, he was the first treasurer to collect interest for the benefit of the various pension funds.

Becomes Policeman.

In 1920, Mr. Traeger was a delegate to the constitutional convention. In 1923, he was appointed to the zoning appeal board by Mayor Dever and he still holds that position under Mayor Thompson.

Resident of South Side.

The Democratic leader has resided on the south side for the last forty-two years. He received his education in Chicago's public schools. He became vice president of the Stockmen's Trust and Savings bank, 800 West Garfield boulevard, when it was organized in 1904 and still holds this position.

Mr. Traeger was married in 1884. He lives with his wife and their daughter, Miss Emma, at 912 West 54th place. They have two other children, Mrs. Mary T. Cavanaugh of 9745 South Hoyne avenue and John E. Traeger Jr. of 2911 South Seeley avenue, Beverly Hills.

The candidate is a tall, square shouldered man whose stamina belies his proximity to three score and ten years. He is making a personal campaign, stepping not a pace behind the younger members of his ticket in the grind of visiting nightly meetings.

KILLED BY FALL DOWN STAIRS.

Barbara Skwarzynski, 78 years old, 5642 South Sawyer avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital of a pelvic fracture, caused when she fell down a flight of stairs Oct. 6.

Mr. Weideling was married in 1900. With his wife, he lives at 5413 Walton street. They have two children—Mrs. Gertrude W. Moore, 2100 North Keeler avenue, and Miss Beatrice.

For 18 years Mr. Weideling was in the traffic division. He started Chicago's mounted police system and promulgated the rules and regulations for handling traffic that are now embodied in an ordinance. Sheriff Peter Hoffman, in 1923, appointed him chief of the county highway police.

In 1925 Sheriff Hoffman, following the Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake jail scandal, named Mr. Weideling as warden. Eight months later Mr. Weideling resigned during an investigation by Judge John P. McGorty after Frank McErlane's booze runner and gangster, was taken into court from the jail intoxicated. At the conclusion of the inquiry the judge announced he had found the warden to be honest, but that there was a "deplorable lack of morale and a breakdown in discipline in the institution."

Mr. Weideling was married in 1900. With his wife, he lives at 5413 Walton street. They have two children—Mrs. Gertrude W. Moore, 2100 North Keeler avenue, and Miss Beatrice.

Another bomb was set off in the hallway at 4030 West Roosevelt road. Damage was small. The first floor is occupied by the Kennard shoe store, and the second floor by Andrew Hasco, a union janitor. No motive for the blast was found.

A third explosion within two hours was at the General Tire company store at 5507 South Michigan avenue. Front windows were shattered.

Damage estimated at $500 was caused when a bomb was exploded in the doorway of the Kostka Bros. battery shop at 2354 South Crawford avenue. Frank Kostka, one of the owners, attributed the blast to union trouble. He said his concern had recently dropped its membership in one organization and joined another.

Fearing that the home of Deputy Police Commissioner Ira J. McDowell, 5134 Long avenue, might be bombed, officials yesterday ordered a police guard stationed there every night.

FOUR BUILDINGS BOMBED; GUARD McDOWELL HOME

Damage estimated at several hundred dollars was caused last night when a bomb was exploded on the roof of the one story building at 2050 Irving Park boulevard, occupied by the Illinois Battery company. John Lunkis, proprietor, said that he recently prosecuted two men for stealing batteries and that he believed they might have adopted this method of revenge.

Another bomb was set off in the hallway at 4030 West Roosevelt road. Damage was small. The first floor is occupied by the Kennard shoe store, and the second floor by Andrew Hasco, a union janitor. No motive for the blast was found.

A third explosion within two hours was at the General Tire company store at 5507 South Michigan avenue. Front windows were shattered.

Damage estimated at $500 was caused when a bomb was exploded in the doorway of the Kostka Bros. battery shop at 2354 South Crawford avenue. Frank Kostka, one of the owners, attributed the blast to union trouble. He said his concern had recently dropped its membership in one organization and joined another.

Fearing that the home of Deputy Police Commissioner Ira J. McDowell, 5134 Long avenue, might be bombed, officials yesterday ordered a police guard stationed there every night.

BELIEVE HOOVER FAVORS GENERAL TARIFF INCREASE

High Protectionists O. K.
Boston Speech.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—(Special.)—Herbert Hoover's Boston speech was construed by Republicans high protectionists today as definitely sanctioning an upward revision of the tariff.
Mr. Hoover's bold assertion in discussing rates of the present Fordney-McCumber law that "undoubtedly some are too low" and that "this is particularly true so far as New England is concerned," was interpreted as meaning that he will approve boosts in duties on textiles and probably on other important manufactured commodities. The presidential candidate already was on record for greater protection for agriculture.
Republican leaders were of the belief that Mr. Hoover's declaration for higher duties on products of New England industries would go far toward holding Massachusetts and Rhode Island in line for the ticket.

Draws Definite Line

Mr. Hoover's discussion of the tariff has served to draw a definite line of cleavage between his position and that of Gov. Al Smith who in his Louisville speech of Saturday night sought to ally fears that Democratic success would mean sharp reductions in tariff rates all along the line.
Differences between the Hoover and Smith theories may be summarized thus:
Tariff rates—Hoover is for adequate protection for American industries and for agriculture and holds that while some present rates may be too high, others are too low. Smith gives general assurance of adequate protection but leaves a loophole for a reduction in rates if the tariff commission so recommends. He makes no promise of any increases in rates on industrial products. He declares against any monopoly created by special tariff favors which has been the basis of many Democratic attacks upon duties sponsored by Republicans.
Smith declares for protection for agriculture which Hoover also favors.

Hoover for General Revision

Procedure—Hoover indicates that he will favor a general revision of the tariff, while Smith opposes this, asserting that he will approve only piecemeal revision of specific schedules on the recommendation of the tariff commission and after full hearing by congress.
While Hoover has made no definite announcement, the impression is that if elected he will call a special session of congress in April or May to revise the tariff.
Tariff commission—Hoover favors continuation of a bipartisan tariff commission which will ascertain costs of production and report the facts to congress which will determine rates of duty. Smith would create a non-partisan commission of "experts" who would make definite recommendations to congress. While both Hoover and Smith have avoided any discussion of the President's increases or lowers duties on the recommendation of the tariff commission, it is the impression that both would consent to its repeal.
The boldness of Mr. Hoover's declaration for higher duties on New England products becomes more apparent

COUNCIL TO ACT TODAY ON BOND ISSUE PROGRAM

Final action on the public improvement bond program to be submitted to the voters Nov. 6 will be taken by the city council at its meeting today. Midnight is the legal deadline before which the council must formally put the issues on the ballot.

Pending before it the council has the report of its finance committee calling for the submission of nine proposals totaling $24,900,000. Of this amount $450,000 is for the improvement of the Cicero avenue airport and the remainder for eight of Michael J. Faherty's street widening projects. Bond issues for the same projects but in larger amounts were rejected 2 to 1 by the voters last April.

In an eleven hour session yesterday the committee voted to load on top of the $25,000,000 program $800,000 for street lights, $250,000 for stop and go lights, and $250,000 for playgrounds, then rescinded its action and left the program unaltered.

Ald. Max Adamowski (28th), who led the fight for the light and playground issues, argued that they should be put on as bait to draw votes.

"You've got to give them something they want," was his contention. Ald. Guy Guernsey (6th), Thomas Byrne (15th) and W. R. O'Toole objected. "Go ahead," shouted O'Toole at the climax of the discussion. "Go ahead, load it on, pile it up, and sink everything. You'll be lucky to get $25,000,000 across."

A hostile attitude toward the submission of any bond issues at the November election has been assumed by the Chicago Civic federation, the Chicago Real Estate board and other civic bodies, but the committee, at Mr. Faherty's insistence, approved the $25,000,000 program.

CANDIDATES HAVE HECTIC DAY IN COUNTY POLITICS

Swanson Raps Lindsay's
Record as Judge.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Judge John A. Swanson, Republican nominee for state's attorney, last night attacked the record of his Democratic opponent, Judge William J. Lindsay, as chief justice of the Criminal court for the 1926-27 period, charging that 123 racketeer bombs were exploded that year and that Lindsay let eleven grand juries pass before him without directing their attention to the pineapple industry.

Judge Lindsay sent a typewritten utterance to the Chicago Church federation exhorting the clergy to work for a reduction of "the wholesale fabrications that contaminate local elections" and to extol truth in politics.

Thomas D. Nash, Democratic candidate for board of review, in night speeches accused his Republican opponent, Edward R. Litsinger, of "favoritism" in tax reductions.

All told, it was quite a sultry night in local politics, and the air quivered with the most ardent line of invective and vituperation heard in a blue moon.

Calls Opponent "Liar."

Judge Swanson applied the tag, "A damned lie," to Judge Lindsay's questions as to whether a gambler had been his escort through south villages in the primary campaign and whether beer and slot machine privileges were promised in payment.

"The only night I made any villages," said Swanson, "was the night I went to villages to the west—that was the night my house was bombed. I read the papers this morning and found for the first time I was paroling out the beer—it's a damned lie."

"There is surely nothing in Judge Lindsay's record as chief justice of the Criminal court to justify any one sending out, as he says, word to the racketeers, 'Get behind Swanson; Lindsay will smash you.' While he was chief justice in 1926 and 1927 he had charge of eleven regular grand juries. The duty of charging them after impaneling is exclusively the function of the chief justice."

Cites Failure to Act

"He calmly kept from each and every grand jury the fact that 'racketeering' bombs were being thrown at business places throughout Chicago at the rate of one every third day during all that time."

"Never did he deliver a charge to any grand jury with regard to 'racketeering.' Nor did he ever deliver a ringing declaration to either the public prosecutor or the public with regard to 'racketeering.'"

"Some sixty odd criminal activities classified as 'rackets' have since been shown to have operated openly without official interference or even rebuke from the Criminal court's chief magistrate during that time."

"With one ringing charge to a Cook county grand jury, Judge Lindsay could have done more to destroy the dangerous alliance between the crooked politician, the trickster, the sinister slugs, bombers and assassins than any one else in Cook county."

"Smashed" in his court room, Judge Lindsay did nothing to earn the enmity of racketeers in his capacity as chief justice."

Judge Lindsay, in his communication to the Chicago Church federation, said he believed the state's attorney and the clergy should be members of a common brotherhood, devoted to the cause of justice through fulfillment of the law.

"I wish to tell the clergymen in Chicago," he said, "that I shall clean up this city and county if elected state's attorney. I expect, if elected, to make Chicago a city to which all of our churches can point with pride as law abiding."

Mr. Nash, in his onslaught upon Mr. Litsinger, his Republican opponent for Board of Review, spoke of the reduction of the assessment of the Chicago Auditorium association from $1,280,000 to $750,000.

"The Pure Oil building," he said, "furnishes another illustration of favoritism. E. S. Cutmore, building appraiser, appraised this building at $3,950,000. It has forty stories. Litsinger, approached by Wallace Clark, an influential member of the Deneen faction, which also embraces Litsinger, cut Mr. Cutmore's figure from $3,950,000 to $1,400,000. When Senator Dalley reached that item while Mr. Cutmore was on the stand, he exclaimed 'the Board of Review's action is pretty outrageous, isn't it?' Mr. Cutmore replied laconically, 'Yes, sir.'"

"Now Litsinger is seeking the franchise of taxpayers in Chicago so that he may serve a third term as member of the board of review. I ask the owners of small homes throughout Cook county whose tax bills were doubled or trebled and in some cases quadrupled whether or not they think Mr. Litsinger is the right man to serve them for six years more."

TERRORISTS SLUG WITNESS IN TRIAL OF 16 ELLER AIDS

Another Caught by Police
as He Flees City.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Charles Alexander and Charles Small, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the Penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Anthony Levant, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the Penitentiary by Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

Vincent Smith, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the Penitentiary by Judge Thomas Taylor.

Terroristic tactics are being resorted to in an effort to scare off prosecution witnesses in the trial of 16 members of Morris Eller, city collector, and his son, Judge Emanuel Eller, before Judge John M. O'Connor, according to reports received yesterday by Sheridan A. Bruseaux, chief investigator of the special grand jury.

Two witnesses were slugged and another was captured as he was on his way to St. Louis, Mo., after having been supplied sufficient funds by a person whose name he refused to reveal.

Cesar Jones, 1145 Washburne avenue, who voted some 23 times in the 20th ward, the Eller stronghold, on last primary day, was slugged after he left the special prosecutors' headquarters in the Otis building. Bruseaux said he suffered a gash over the right eye, which was treated by a physician.

Shugged Near His Home.

"Jones was not a known witness," said Bruseaux. "In fact, he only told us his story yesterday afternoon. He was obviously followed as he left our office, and when within a block of his home was struck with a bottle or some other instrument."

Jones was given a list of persons whose names were placed on the registers in various 20th ward precincts and told to vote in the designated precinct, he said. He was paid $25 and carfare by a precinct official, it was reported.

William Sephus, 1206 Maxwell street, a barber and an important witness, was assaulted by Robert Brown, 1947 Maxwell street, who is under arrest. Brown admitted that he had said he was "going to kill Sephus," and did make an attempt to attack him, but he said it was due to drinking rather than to gang activities. Policeman Glenn Crockett, who is guarding Sephus while he operates his shop, caused Brown's arrest.

Witness Caught in Flight.

Curly Johnson, 1151 Washburne avenue, was the man caught leaving the city. He was also a repeater for the 20th yard machine and was expected to give valuable testimony. He was threatened recently, and as a result was under surveillance of detectives. When he attempted to leave the city on Monday night he was captured.

The special grand jury took quick action, it is reported, against Ralph Pierce, a member of the Capone gang, who is alleged to have been one of the guards at the "jail" kept at 1152 South Peoria street to house kidnaped workers opposed to the Eller faction.

Pierce was only recently apprehended and identified as one of the Eller henchmen. The grand jury, after hearing testimony submitted by Assistant Attorney General William Haynes, immediately decided, it was said, to vote eight or nine true bills against the gangster, charging him with kidnaping, assault to kill, and robbery.

Frank J. Loesch, chief special prosecutor, is more severely injured than at first reported. Instead of a sprain in his ankle an X-ray showed that a small bone is broken. He will be kept to his room in the Drake hotel for at least two weeks and then will have to use crutches for some time. The 76-year-old prosecutor was injured Sunday night while alighting from an automobile.

TRUE BILLS NAME 4 IN SOUTH SIDE GARAGE BOMBING

True bills charging conspiracy were voted by the grand jury yesterday against four officials of the garage employees union as a result of the bomb explosion on Sunday at the Gateway garage, 5620 Stony Island avenue, owned by William T. Woodley. The indictment will charge conspiracy to commit malicious mischief.

Frank Hill, alias Gull, president; John Liberty, business agent; Thomas Cawley, secretary; and Fred Smith, are the men named in the true bill. They are charged with responsibility for the explosion which caused damage to automobiles stored in the garage.

Woodley told Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Nicolai that some weeks ago Liberty and Smith sought to unionize employees in his garage.

Q—Did you see those policemen later? A—Yes, in my office.

An objection by defense attorneys stopped further testimony along this line. In answer to the next question Dembo also said that Capt. Daniel Lynch, then of the Maxwell street station, had been to see him, and that also was as far as he was permitted to go.

Under final questioning Dembo said that there were irregularities in the casting of at least 75 out of 103 votes which were cast during the time he was watching. He said that just before he was "removed" from the precinct by Pacelli and his men, he had challenged 15 or 20 persons who came in to vote.

"These," he said, "gave the names of persons duly registered but I knew they were not the persons they represented themselves to be."

Cross Examination Begins.

Attorney Benedict Short took the witness through cross examination.

MR. SHORT: You held a job, a political job, didn't you?

DEMBO: Yes, I was assistant state's attorney for two years.

Q—And you resigned under pressure?

sure did you? A—No, not exactly; there had been some trouble.

Q—Wasn't it in connection with being charged with bribery that Mr. Crowe fired you? A—No—There was no such charge.

Q—Were you indicted by the federal court? A—Yes.

Q—How many times? A—Only once—just once.

Q—With Druggan and Lake? A—I don't know what you mean. I was indicted but the case was dismissed without a hearing.

Demos Trouble in Boys' Court.

Q—Weren't you also in some trouble over in the Boys' court while Judge Allegretti was there? A—Never, what-soever.

Attorney Short forced the witness to admit he had lived for at least three months in the Commonwealth hotel. He tried to establish that Dembo had two addresses and that he spent little time in the 20th ward.

Q—Married? A—Single.

Q—Who do you live with in the 20th ward? A—My sister.

Q—Been home there lately. A—Yes, lately.

Q—Well, were you home one night overnight last week? A—No, I wasn't.

Q—When were you home overnight last time? A—About three weeks ago.

Room Kept Ready for Him.

Q—You don't go home very often? A—Not lately.

Q—Your sister keeps the room ready for you though? A—Yes.

Q—Now, wasn't it a fact that you knew Pete Pacelli a long time? A—Yes.

Q—And as assistant state's attorney had been friendly with him? A—Yes, that's true.

Q—And wasn't he taking you away from that polling place to protect you as a matter of fact? A—No, sir.

Q—And your conversation was pleasant in that car, wasn't it? A—You might think it was pleasant. It wasn't to me.

Earlier in the day the name of Sheridan A. Bruseaux, chief investigator for the grand jury, had come up many times in the cross examination of Paumpy Cornelius and his half brother, Samuel Bennett, both colored.

Cornelius had testified he was kidnaped on primary day and held captive 12 hours and Bennett had corroborated his testimony. The implication left by the defense questions was that Bruseaux had threatened the witnesses in order to make them testify as he desired.

Bennett testified that on the morning his brother was kidnaped by Sam Bardin and Joe Breclav, a balliff, two of the defendants, he went to Eddie Brownstein, another defendant, who was in charge of the Tenth precinct of the Twentieth ward.

"What did you have my brother kidnaped for?" Bennett quoted himself as asking Brownstein; and he said the latter replied: "I had to do it, he was working against me."

Bennett then identified Brownstein, Bardin and Breclav, pointing them out as they sat in the courtroom.

RALPH CAPONE AND PALS FREED ON GUN CHARGE

Judge Sorry, but Evidence Is Too Weak, He Says.

Ralph Capone and two companions were freed yesterday by Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden in South Clark street court, whom they faced on a gun charge. Capone's companions were James Novasek, 2244 South 4th avenue, Cicero, and Peter Ryan, 2243 South 48th avenue, Cicero. Ralph is a brother of Al Capone, generalissimo of gangland.

Judge Padden expressed regret to the crowd, who arrested the trio on Oct. 1, that in his opinion the evidence was not sufficient under the state gun law to warrant conviction. Lieut. Hoffman and members of his squad testified that they found three revolvers behind a radiator in a cigar store a few feet from Novasek and Ryan, and that the two had just leaped from Capone's car upon approach of police. Capone had remained in the store. "Four suspicions, I'm sure, are all," said Judge Padden, "but the law is strict on this point, and however much I'd like to send these three to the Bridewell, I can't do it."

Turns Attention to Others.
With the Capone case out of the picture, Deputy Police Commissioner John Stagg turned his attention to the alleged revolver toting practices of the underworld who have similar cases pending in the courts.

Frankie Lake, partner of Terry Higgins, is one of these defendants. He was recently of gun toting in Municipal court, and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and fined $100. Lake appealed to the Illinois Supreme court, where the case is now pending.

Mike Carozzo, a power in the Street Sweeper's union in addition to various other activities, and Edward (Mike) O'Donnell, south side beer gangster, are two others who are denying ways of dodging punishment on gun toting charges.

Produces Gun Permit.
Carozzo was picked up on suspicion during investigation of the Ranieri kidnapping case. He produced a star and a permit of a state constabulary organization to show he was entitled to carry the revolver found in his pocket. But officials of the constabulary denied Mike was any longer in good standing with them.

The O'Donnell gun case is also awaiting jury trial. O'Donnell was picked up for questioning after some of his gangster rivals tried to kill him with machine gun bullets. He explained the gun in his pocket by saying he was forced to carry it for protection.

John Calski, 22 years old, 1754 W. Garfield boulevard, said by the police to be a bodyguard for O'Donnell, was arrested last night in a candy store at 5001 South Ashland avenue. He was carrying a pistol at the time. An attempt was made last week to assassinate O'Donnell. Calski has been sought for questioning.

Joe Salvia is the final member of the quintet whose handiness with guns is notorious. Nearly two years ago he was convicted by Municipal Judge George A. Curran on a gun charge and sentenced to sixty days in the Bridewell and fined $50 and costs. It was the first conviction of any kind he chalked up against him during more than twenty years' career as a gangster-bootlegger-hoodlum. Salvia carried his case up to the

At a meeting of 500 colored voters in the quarters of the William Hale Thompson Republican club at 228 East 43d street last night Oscar De Priest, Negro candidate for congressman, urged members of his race to vote the straight Republican ticket. Other speakers were Robert C. O'Connell and Fred W. Elliott.

NOVICE, FLYING UNLICENSED, IS KILLED IN CRASH

"Stick and Wire" Plane Falls in Stunt Flight.

Aviation ambitions led to the death yesterday of Henry Cederberg, 30, a painter and decorator, 7214 Champlain avenue, and minor injuries to Walter Mau, 26, a bus chauffeur, 5237 Ellis avenue, when their plane crashed at Ashburn field in an accident described as causing "publicity unfavorable to the business of carrying air passengers."

The plane was an old one, described as "assembled." Neither the plane nor Cederberg was licensed. Cederberg was also inexperienced. It was stated. Mau was a beginner and had just bought a half interest in the airplane. Cederberg was demonstrating. Falls 200 Feet.

The plane fell about 200 feet, in front of the hangars at Ashburn field. A technical description given of the cause of the accident was that the ship went into a "tight spiral" and the pilot didn't know what to do to right it.

One man familiar with airplanes said the wrecked plane was known as "stick and wire"—an old type and unlike modern ships which have steel supports. It was known as a Mosman Avro ship, and had been in an accident at least once before.

Mau said he had become half owner of the ship a few days ago, but whether or not Cederberg owned the other share was not definitely established.

Known as "Reckless" Flyer.

Information was refused at Ashburn field as to whether Cederberg had been keeping his unlicensed machine at the field and whether he had been in the business of taking up passengers. Mrs. J. A. Johnson, with whom Cederberg boarded, said his parents live in Sweden, but that he had a wife who is employed as a maid in Beverly Hills. She said she believed Cederberg learned to fly two years ago and bought the plane a year ago.

The accident will be investigated by representatives of the department of commerce which yesterday were making an inquiry concerning the accident in which Mrs. Jane Marker of Evanston was killed Sunday night near Waukegan. A plane piloted by Don Barstow of Chicago, struck an electric high tension wire and nose dived to the ground.

Mrs. Marker, her husband, Van R. Marker, president of the Revere Electric company, and their 7 year old daughter, were riding in the front seat, contrary to government regulations, it was stated yesterday at the inquest.

Hassell and Cramer Due to Arrive Here Tomorrow

Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, Rockford flyers who were forced down in Greenland in an attempted flight from Rockford to Stockholm, Sweden, are scheduled to arrive in Chicago tomorrow afternoon from New York, where they landed yesterday. A committee of Rockford citizens will meet them here and the party will return by special train to Rockford, where a huge homecoming celebration is planned.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands who Dr. Edwards produced. Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 30 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers. Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping in the "keynote" of these sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" or a "dull, tired feeling"—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, try and quick, sure and pleasant relief from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night and sleep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

RUM GUARD IN HANSON KILLING STILL SHOOTING

Imperiled Canadians, Is Newest Charge.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 16.—[Special.]—Boatman Frank Beck of the United States coast guard, already under indictment in connection with the killing of Jacob D. Hanson of Niagara Falls by his trigger rifleman of the rum navy, faced a fresh accusation today.

A coast guard cutter which endangered the lives of Canadians in the waters of Niagara on the lake by reckless firing while chasing a rum runner on Oct. 3, was under his command, it was learned today.

Beck, though twice indicted by the Niagara county grand jury for his part in the Hanson shooting, continues to hold his command at the Port Niagara coast guard station. Another Outrage Reported.

Meanwhile Canadian authorities in Port Huron and Niagara Falls, Ont., are preparing reports to the dominion government on the complaint of Tony Martella, a naturalized Canadian living on a farm on Navy Island, that on the morning of Sept. 17 he was aroused by shooting, and going down the river saw a U. S. coast guard cutter chasing small motor launches.

Thereupon the United States officers landed the liquor from the beached boats and put it into their own craft. The officers saw Martella, convinced him with a gun, told him he was under arrest, and searched his person. He was then taken to the shore for transport to Buffalo he put a violent protest, declaring he was a Canadian on Canadian soil, and got away, running into the woods.

Life for Pint Law Jolted.

Lawyer, Mich., Oct. 16.—[Special.]—Efforts of the state of Michigan to get Mrs. Ella Mae Miller, mother of several children, to prison for life on a liquor law violation charge received setback in court today when she was acquitted.

John Haynes and Emmett Clark, retained by the state to prove the purchase of liquor from Mrs. Miller, denied that she had purchased liquor from the woman. One specifically denied having made any purchase and the other said he was too intoxicated to remember what happened.

Mrs. Miller, if convicted, would be sentenced to life imprisonment under the mandatory provisions of the new Michigan criminal code.

PHILADELPHIA POLICE HIRED AS BEER GUARDS; TWENTY FACE ARREST

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 16.—[Special.]—Arrests of between fifteen and twenty detectives and patrolmen were announced today by the district attorney's office to be impending as a result of revelations made by the Hendrie brothers, former "beer barons."

The charges were said to be bribery, conspiracy and extortion, the charges on which numerous policemen already have been arrested.

The Hendrie brothers, Al and Ferguson, were taken to the district attorney's office last night, and according to reports they disclosed how they operated beer trucks in Philadelphia under police protection, well paid for.

After the investigators heard the story of the Hendries, they issued summonses at 5 a. m. for a suspended captain, thirteen city hall detectives and three patrolmen. These officers were confronted by the Hendrie brothers.

Frank Eastman, under questioning by Claud Marshall, counsel for Mrs. Miller, said that they knew Mrs. Miller had been convicted three times of prohibition violations, that they saw her approach the car in which Haynes and Clark were seated, and that they thereupon gave chase to the car.

They placed the two men under arrest.

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing aids, our scientists have perfected a New Model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the re-creation of hearing.

This latest Acousticon is small, light and inconspicuous, and featured by a tiny earpiece no larger than a dime. Through this device, sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears with wonderful benefits to hearing and health alike.

If you really want to find hearing, we know of no better place to look for it than in the Acousticon Consultation Rooms. The bottles, containing moonshine whiskey, were submitted as evidence and were accepted by Justice John McClellan over the strenuous objections of Marshall. After the four witnesses were heard, he was granted an adjournment of a week in order to prepare a motion for dismissal of the charge.

Ottawa Denies Action.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 16.—[Special.]—According to Canadian government officials, Chief Hyatt of the Canadian customs service erred when he said that the Canadian government was gathering evidence concerning seizures similar to that of the Canadian boat, OK-E. Ottawa has not been officially informed by Mr. Hyatt of the OK-E affair. There was a case mentioned in parliament last session where Windsor Canadians claimed to have been fired upon by American rum chaser officers. The United States government simply said they had no knowledge of shots being fired.

HERE'S HOOVER'S OFFICIAL RECORD ON "FARM ISSUE"

It's in Statistics of U. S. Food Administration.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Oct. 15.—(Special.)—Behind the tons of statistics and records of the United States food administration, which expended seven million dollars in food purchases during the war, lies the story of Herbert Hoover's attitude toward the American farmer.

Back of Mr. Hoover's public career, his wide world roamings as a professional engineer, his life in London and his dealings with courts and governments, there was the memory of the fields of Iowa, where he worked as a boy, and his Uncle Allan's farm, where he was put to labor after he became an orphan. And back of all this was the subconscious influence of that heritage of Quaker farmers and pioneers who went west in the covered wagons and broke a virgin soil.

Senator Spencer's Tribune.
Senator Frederic M. Sackett of Kentucky, in an address in the senate on April 26, last, said of Mr. Hoover: "No period of greater prosperity has ever come to the farmer in this country than during the life of the food administration and the year following its dissolution. There has been no time when the profits of farming were so large, no time when there was such a great advance in land values, and that there was no time in all the hundreds of discussions of these problems that Mr. Hoover did not evince his conviction of the necessity of protecting the farmer. There was no time when his own farm upbringing did not come to the surface in the assertion of the farmer's rights."

His Action on Wheat Stabilization.
One of Mr. Hoover's first actions in dealing with the food situation had to do with wheat stabilization. On July 10, 1917, he made this statement to the President:

"The experience this year in the rampant speculation, extortionate profits and the prospects of even narrower supplies than 1916 harvest and carryover, must cause the deepest anxiety. No better proof of the hardship worked on our people during the last year needs be deduced than the recitation of the fact that the producer received an average of $1.50 per bushel for the 1916 wheat harvest, yet wheat had been as high as $3.25 at Chicago and the price of flour had been from

FIGHT LOOMS AS COUNCIL OPENS BIDS ON METERS

Another battle between Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe and the city council appeared likely yesterday following the opening of a second set of bids on a contract for 11,400 water meters. The Pittsburgh Equitable Meter company was low with a bid of $158,884.

Three weeks ago the council finance committee unanimously advised Mr. Wolfe to let the contract to the Federal Meter corporation, low bidder the first time. Mr. Wolfe insisted that the order go to the Gamon Meter company, second low bidder, ignored the committee, rejected the bids, and re-advertised.

The new bids were: Pittsburgh Equitable Meter company, $158,884; Badger Meter Manufacturing company, $158,740; Gamon Meter company, $181,960; Federal Meter corporation, $183,210; Buffalo Meter company, $192,400; National Meter company, $204,700; Neptune Meter company, $204,700; Hersey Manufacturing company, $265,500. All were referred to City Engineer Loren D. Gayton for a report.

time to time based upon this speculative price of wheat, so that through one evil cause or another, the consumer has suffered from 50 to 100 per cent and the producer gained nothing.

During recent months the allied governments have consolidated their buying into one hand, in order that they might relieve the burden of speculation from their own consumers, and the export price, if not controlled, is subject to the will of the allied buyer and in great measure the American producer is left to his judgment and without voice.

Says "Protect the Farmer."
"In order to do justice to the producers who have shown great patriotism in a special effort to increase production in 1917 and to further stimulate the efforts of 1918, it is absolutely vital that we shall protect the farmer from slump in price this year due to glut, as above, or from the uncontrolled decisions of any one buyer. I am informed that most of the allied countries have fixed the price of wheat to the farmer at $1.50 per bushel, and many of them believe that as allies it is our duty to furnish wheat at a price which delivered to them will not exceed their domestic price—in other words, about $1.50 a bushel, Chicago. Neither the responsible officials nor I hold this view, because I consider the stimulation to production, if no other reason, is in the long run in the interest of the allies."

Following this Mr. Hoover recommended to the President that a commission be appointed to determine what would be a fair price for the allies to pay for wheat. This commission was made up chiefly of farmers, including Charles Barrett, president of the Farmers' union; L. J. Taber, master of the National grange; E. D. Funk, then president of the Corn Growers' association, and W. J. Shortall, secretary of the Farmers' Co-operative Elevator association.

Congress Interfered.
The commission unanimously determined $2.20 at Chicago a fair price. Congress had fixed the government price for the 1918 crop at twenty cents less. Neither Mr. Hoover nor any of the officials of the food administration participated in this, as was later attested by President Wilson, and Mr. Hoover was ordered to carry out these findings. He did this, and as the citizens of the allied countries could not afford to pay the price the allied governments had to buy wheat for them and sell below cost. Mr. Hoover's European stock rather went down at that time. The wheat acreage in this country increased by seven million acres that year. The price of wheat land rose $11 an acre that year. At the same time the price of flour went down.

"When the war came to an end in 1918," writes Mr. Hoover in 1925, "and the governmental price supports were removed from all other commodities (except pork), yet this support was continued to the wheat farmer for a year and a half after the armistice, thus permitting him to liquidate in full his war production. Had it not been for this support by the Grain corporation [the greatest subsidiary of the food administration] the price would have collapsed in 1919, because of the released accumulations in the southern hemisphere. Wheat to the value of nearly $500,000,000 was purchased in this period by the Grain corporation in order to support the market."

Accomplishes Dual Service.
How Mr. Hoover went to Europe at his own expense and fought to get American food through to starving Europe after the armistice, with the dual purpose of feeding these people and keeping up the prices for American producers, is another story, perhaps the finest of his career. In the meantime we were at war and the allies were wondering how long the food would hold out. They were dependent on America. There came a day when Mr. Hoover, sent to Europe in 1918 by the President, spoke before eminent men dining off gold plate in the Mansion house in London and gave them this assurance:

"We have during the past twelve months exported about ten million tons of food. This saving of food has been largely upon a voluntary basis, and no better indication of contribution of American people to the common cause can exist than the volume of food that has traveled through our ports during the last six months."

"We have given a definite financial guarantee and assurance to our agricultural population as to stabilized markets for these products. All anxiety as to the great essential of food has now passed. Our meat and fat supplies are now ample. Beyond this we can this year build up reserves in North America against possible short harvest next year."

The men at those tables knew that Hoover's words, simple, half audible, based on facts, meant victory. And a few months later came the armistice.

No Other Cars in the World possess these SAFETY FEATURES

1.. Women delight in the sense of security instilled by the new and amazingly responsive Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission. They can shift gears easily—instantly—at any speed—without the slightest clashing.

3.. No impact from stick, stone, or ball, or from collision can shatter Cadillac-La Salle Security Plate Glass. This means safety and peace of mind.

THE new Cadillacs and La Salles are characterized by three revolutionary new safety features of inestimable value to every motorist.

In time of emergency there is no more vital safety factor than the new Cadillac-La Salle Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission which permits quiet, easy, instantaneous shifting of gears in the maze of city traffic or on mountain roads—at any speed—without pausing in neutral—and without the slightest suggestion of clashing. The tremendous advantage of this remarkable transmission can be had only in the new Cadillacs and La Salles.

The second great safety feature is the new braking system. * No other cars have equal braking protection, because no other cars have brakes so powerful, so positive in action, so velvet-like in grip and so responsive to the slightest pedal pressure. For these cars and these alone are equipped with the new Duplex-Mechanical System of Effortless Four-Wheel brakes.

The third rests in the fact that all windows, doors and windshields are equipped with Cadillac-La Salle Security-Plate Glass—so that you may forever dismiss from your mind any concern about being injured by flying glass fragments.

Ride or, better still, drive a new

Cadillac or a new LaSalle and you realize at once how vastly they differ from all other cars. Remarkable handling ease, perfection of control and a grateful sense of security advance them far beyond mere newness.

These new and advanced safety factors are found only in Cadillac and La Salle and are still further reasons why these cars appeal so strongly to women. Investigate these new features for yourself. Any Cadillac-La Salle dealer will provide you with a car. Just telephone.

THE AGE OF ACTION

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 17, 1858.

WASHINGTON.—The rumor that Lee is still seeking to turn our right wing and that Hill on Wednesday was repulsed at Bristow Station still lack official confirmation. Our prisoners in the Bristow affair are 701. Some of our men were surprised and 100 killed before they could get to their arms. Meade is in about the same position as yesterday. Lee's strength is estimated at from 19,000 to 20,000.

CAIRO.—The steamer Metropolitan arrived from Vicksburg with Maj. Gen. Grant and his staff. Gen. Grant lately issued his order No. 271 at Vicksburg. It sets forth that all citizens residing within the fortification around the city will be permitted to resume their former occupations and business.

NEW YORK.—The Tribune's correspondent at Chattanooga says: Since the 7th no hostile demonstrations have been made on our front. Their batteries on the northern slope of Lookout mountain have been withdrawn. Those on the left have remained silent. Yesterday and today guns on the right and left compelled Bragg to remove his headquarters from Missionary Ridge and drove away the whole signal corps on Lookout mountain.

WASHINGTON.—Gov. Yates of Illinois and Salomon of Wisconsin arrived today. Gov. Yates is seeking the removal of some of the restrictions on Mississippi river commerce. Gov. Salomon has some questions to settle with the war department.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY.

OCTOBER 17, 1893.

MANILA.—The insurgents at Legaspi have prevented an American steamer from loading or unloading, on the ground that there were Spaniards aboard. They also refused to allow an officer of the United States cruiser Raleigh to land without permission of Gen. Aguinaldo.

WASHINGTON.—On Oct. 13 the United States will take possession formally of the island of Porto Rico. By that time most of the Spanish officials and troops will have departed for Spain. Brig. Gen. Fred D. Grant will be given command of the district of San Juan.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Col. Culver's Fifth Illinois was transformed from a regiment of United States volunteer troops into the Fifth regiment, Illinois National Guard, today.

CHICAGO.—Three great audiences last evening participated in union thanksgiving services at the Auditorium, Studebaker hall, and the First Methodist church, with President McKinley as a chief attraction at the Auditorium.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY.

OCTOBER 17, 1913.

HAVRE.—The Germans have started a retreat on a tremendous scale from northern Belgium. French cavalry is approaching Thiel. Seventeen miles from the banks of the Ghent-Bruges canal. The canal is itself only ten miles from the border of Holland. So fast is the enemy retreating that the French, British, and Belgians, at least in the center of the battle front, have lost touch entirely with the enemy.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE.—The American troops have occupied the town of Grand Pre, on the north bank of the Aisne river north of the Argonne forest. The place is of great strategic importance. After their struggle for mastery in the Argonne woods the Americans moved several companies of infantry over the Aisne river and under cover of heavy artillery fire moved, almost without stopping, along the eastern flank of the position and into the town.

WASHINGTON.—Although placing no credence in unconfirmed reports that the Kaiser is preparing to abdicate and Germany to surrender on the allied terms, Washington is in possession of ample evidence that President Wilson's ultimatum was a terrific blow to the Germans. It is reported that Berlin is dispatching a rejoinder to President Wilson accepting the armistice terms he outlined "only under conditions that Germany's interests and those of the German people are guaranteed."

CHICAGO.—The shame of being accused as a slacker city confronts Chicago unless by Saturday night it shakes off its apathy in Liberty bond buying. The city is $15,000,000 short of the day's percentage necessary if it emerges Saturday night with honor.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full name and address. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

VIOLATIONS OF LIBERTY.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—I suppose it makes a difference whose or what is being guarded but I refuse to become wildly indignant when our dry enforcement officers with gun and black jack try to take away our God given constitutional right to drink whatever we may see fit. From my viewpoint the right to light up my rather slow brain with a liquid accelerator is comparatively of little importance. The racketeer business associations which compel the small dealer to join, donate money, make an agreement to charge the public a uniform price which is made as high as the traffic will stand, seem to me to violate a more important right. So does the labor union that compels the mechanic to pay a fee of $200 for the privilege of looking for a job.

POLICE BRUTALITY.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—On the morning of Oct. 13 I had an almost unbelievable experience with Officer 14 at 434 street and Ellis avenue. As I was pulling out from a store where I had been shopping, he called to me to stop. I stopped. "Didn't ya see that truck comin' behind ya? It almost ran into ya. A man like you shouldn't drive a motor vehicle." He yelled those words at me. "Haven't you instructions to speak politely to people?" I asked.

"What do ya expect me to do?" he answered, bending his knees in mock humility. "Do ya want me to say, 'Please, mister, be more careful?' Get out of that car," he screamed, "you're under arrest, and I'll take you to the station in the wagon."

I stepped out of the car and he grabbed my arm and twisted it viciously. "What's your name?" he asked. While handing him my card, I took a close look at his meter. When he saw that glance he snickered and meekly told me to go on.

I am a man of advanced years and of a frail body. Fortunately, perhaps, I wasn't armed, else there might have been a different story.

AS IT LOOKS IN GERMANY.

BONN, Germany, Oct. 2.—When the inhabitants of Lilliputia caught Gulliver asleep (alarmed by his to them, colossal size), they pegged him to the ground, with thousands of little pegs. The late President Wilson, then, climbed a ladder and stood upon Gulliver's chest, from which platform he made one of his most famous proclamations, saying that there ought to be "no annexations and no indemnities." In this hope and belief, Gulliver succumbed.

ALL OVER BUT THE SHOOTING. Chicago, Oct. 14.—After the last campaign speech has echoed over the multi-channelled radio networks; after the last of the various meeting halls have swept, shovelled, and removed all vestige and remnants of the flowery edibles; after the last "point with pride" and "view with alarm" has been buried in the black, bunk, and ballyhoo haze of the presidential contenders we can sit back and figure out where we stand. Normally Republican, the country will run true to form and elect Hoover. His election is not only predicted, but conceded. There is nothing abnormal confronting the American citizenry as either the foreign relations horizon or internal industrial field.

Even the most rabid of the defeatists will admit that the sun will still rise in the east and set in the west; otherwise intelligent men will go on buying hair tonic from baldheaded barbers, and genuine diamond rings from total strangers, and the laws of gravitation will not be jeopardized by repeal or amendment for the next four years. Issues will vanish like will o' wisps.

So, I say, let's settle back to our own patriotic pastimes of hunting rats and denouncing foreign dictators. Let us rejoice that we are assured of continued life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness through the ever-watchfulness of the Anti-Saloon league, the W. C. T. U., and the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals.

A CAMPAIGN CANARD.

Racine, Wis., Oct. 12.—Less than two weeks until election. Isn't it about time for the Democrats to resurrect their quadrennial masterpiece of whispering that the Republican candidate is a Negro, or that he married into a Negro family, or that his father married a Negro, or any of the several malicious variations that have graced every presidential election as far back as I can remember? If the Tammany-Bible ticket lets this opportunity slip, it will be the first time in history that a attempt has not been made to influence the southern and border states by injecting colored blood into the veins of the Republican candidate. MR. HOOVER AT BOSTON.

Mr. Hoover's address at Boston is the most satisfactory document which this campaign has produced. In it Mr. Hoover demonstrated more effectively than at any other time in the campaign his understanding of the causes of American prosperity. The grasp he displayed is ample evidence to support the belief that under his administration as President the American people, individually and collectively, so far the President can contribute to the movement, will advance in wealth and security.

Mr. Hoover committed himself to a continuance of the protective tariff system. He recalled that the only eight months ago the Democrats in the senate voted in favor of a resolution designed to bring about the reduction of our present schedules. He will not countenance such a move, he said, for it must result, as the Underwood tariff threatened to result, in the disruption of our economic life.

At no point in his address was Mr. Hoover more effective than in his analysis of the stock arguments against our protective system. It has been said that our tariff, by discouraging imports, also prevents those in foreign lands from buying the products of our farms and factories. Mr. Hoover proved the falsity of this contention by showing that our exports have gone ahead 80 per cent, even allowing for the depreciation in monetary values, in the seven and a half years since Republican tariff policies were reestablished. He showed that there is no truth to the contention that our tariff renders it impossible for foreigners to pay for our goods. Last year we imported more than four billion dollars' worth of foreign goods, our travelers abroad spent another $700,000,000, and immigrants sent $240,000,000 from the United States to their home lands.

"The exports of five leading manufacturing nations of Europe to the United States have increased 75 per cent since 1915," he said, "whereas the sales of these same nations to the rest of the world have increased only 12 per cent. Certainly that does not indicate any great destruction of their ability to sell us something despite our tariff. In short, there is no practical force in the contention that we cannot have a protective tariff and a growing foreign trade. We have both today."

Mr. Hoover's remarks on the tariff are worth examination in detail if only because they throw light upon his mental processes. He will listen to a plausible argument but he insists upon checking the contentions against the facts. The same attitude of mind was displayed in his comments upon the foreign debt settlements. It has been said so often in this country that many have come to believe it a fact that the European governments can never pay us what they have agreed to pay. The argument runs that Europe can pay only in gold or in goods. Europe has no gold to spare and our tariff prevents payment in goods. Mr. Hoover showed that we do import goods directly from Europe and that we import close to three billion dollars' worth of raw materials each year, mainly from the tropics, duty free, much of which is sold to us by Europeans. Indeed, the $250,000,000 due each year on the debt is less than 5 per cent of the total annual sales of European nations in this country. To say, under such circumstances, that Europeans cannot settle their obligations to the American taxpayers is nonsense. Mr. Hoover left no doubt that he will insist upon payment.

His policy with respect to the merchant marine is equally gratifying to those who wish our country to prosper. He showed that our trade cannot be safely entrusted to tramp ships but must be carried on regular schedule over our principal trade routes. He is opposed to government ownership of merchant ships because of his conviction that government ownership and operation tends to become wasteful and bureaucratic. He believes in giving encouragement to private shipping companies and he favors a continuance of government operation only until responsible shipping companies can be found to take over the needed routes and operate them in the service of American agriculture and industry.

Mr. Hoover is the business man in public life. We have had too few like him. He thinks in terms of concrete objectives. As President, his objective will be the enhancement of American prosperity. He knows America's economic structure as few men know it, and he has had wide experience in federal administration. The results he has achieved in the development of our foreign trade and in the settlement of our foreign debts are the proof of his ability and his devotion to his country's interests. The Boston speech served to reinforce the judgment that he is unusually well qualified for the office he is seeking.

THE TRAINMEN'S DILEMMA.

The most regrettable aspect of the controversy between the western railroads and their trainmen is the apparent unwillingness of the trainmen to face the realities of the situation. The essence of the conflict is the refusal of the employees to agree to operate longer trains in return for an increase of wages. The existing limitation on the length of trains is unreasonable. It is an inheritance from an earlier day when the power of locomotives was considerably less than it is today. The greater power of modern locomotives, particularly when several of them are used to haul a single train, can effect great economies in the cost of transportation, provided the railroads are not obliged by their agreements with the unions to increase the train crews proportionately.

The union leaders appear to be unmindful of the fact that the railroad as a means of transportation is facing competition such as it has not known in several generations. The loss of passenger business to the bus lines has rendered the operation of hundreds of trains unprofitable. At the same time motor trucks are cutting into the freight business. For distances up to several hundred miles the truck companies, broadly speaking, make prompt deliveries. They carry the shipments from the consignor's door to the consignee's door. In an era of hard to mouth buying this is an advantage which cannot be disregarded.

We believe that the trainmen should be paid the highest wages that the railroads can afford. We know that the only sound basis for higher wages is increased output per man. By insisting upon limitation of production, the union leaders are digging their own graves. They are seeking to deprive the railroad industry of its principal weapon in the fight against the competition of the motor truck. If they win, they lose.

OUR EXILES.

Mr. Galpin, chairman of the Republican central committee of Cook county, has had almost an entire summer to appear before any one of the several grand juries which have been anxious to receive him. He has remained out of the state. Another well known citizen, Mr. Saltis, seems to have remained away from home. He is wanted in court on a gun toting charge. Every now and then it appears that he might have come back for a little fall shooting. Spike O'Donnell is morally certain that he has. We are clocking Mr. Saltis, and the period, if not the experiences of his Odyssey, is noted daily in this Tribune.

It has been inferred that Mr. Galpin remains away because there is a special grand jury kept over from month to month. It is a large political year, and this is its largest month, but it must be remembered that he was told the less he had to do with management the more he would serve his party. That was a whole truth.

Mr. Galpin is in northern Wisconsin, and it would be an unusual and extraordinary man who would not prefer being there at this time of the year to being before a grand jury at this or any other time of the year. Mr. Galpin's temptations to remain where he is must be considered. With the grand jury repelling him and the charms of October beguiling him, he remains in the woods, having taken to them.

The coloring comes earlier to northern Wisconsin than it does to the woods in these parts, but there are still oaks aflame against the white pine, spruce, and balsam. Aspen and poplar have lost their leaves, and maple, which was crimson, is now bare, but the ground is rich with what has fallen. A thousand memories rustle underfoot if Mr. Galpin inclines to walk and meditate.

Mallard, teal, and canvasbacks are in the headwaters of the Wisconsin river, that noble waterway of the discoverer, of the French trader, hunter, explorer, and priest. They are in the lakes and thoroughfares. There has been frost, and the crisp air, odorless with balsam, is a sparkling wine for the healthy exaltation of man. Fat bucks bellow across the roadways. There are white frost and white mists for the red sun in the morning, and after a flaming sundown the chill comes creeping in. In the lodge a great fire of logs crackles and snaps, and after dusk a happy elf, conscious of the bounties of a prodigal nature, may read the "Meditations of Marcus Aurelius." "The Green Murder Case," or, as Dr. Tunney, "Hamlet," or "Lear," or "Macbeth." The great horned owl may hoot against the moon or the small timber wolves may howl down the wind, which will but the more securely cloister the serene mood within.

Mr. Galpin should give this up for a grand jury. He should reenter the world and reembrace his vexations and confront its questions. Whatever Mr. Saltis may decide to do eventually, however soon that hermit may come out of his retreat, Mr. Galpin may be expected to pursue the esthetic and philosophical enjoyment of the higher life.

Editorial of the Day

AMERICAN LABOR.

(Paris Times, Paris.)

The most interesting aspect of the prosperity of American labor is the exponent of its increase in earnings over the increase in the cost of living. This single fact is enough to make Marxism impossible as a social theory for American workmen. It may be recalled that this Marxian theory reposes upon the dogma that under the capitalist system the working class can never earn more than the bare necessities of life, all profit going to the exploiter of labor. But American labor appears to be earning a good deal more than the bare necessities of life—to be sharing, in fact, in the profits of industry. Wages in 1923 in the United States were 125 per cent higher than they were in 1913, but the cost of living was only 75 per cent higher. The workman gets 50 per cent more in purchasing power than he did in 1913. And supposing a reasonable assumption—that the wage of 1913 provided for the simple necessities of life, if not more, it is apparent that this excess of 50 per cent is of the nature of profit—a phenomenon which is flatly declared to be impossible under the Marxian theory of economics. The United States has thus swept away one of the important elements of the Marxian foundation; in consequence, it has severely injured the theoretical value of the Marxian superstructure.

It is interesting to see the effort which is being made by Marxian economists to fit their theories to the disconcerting facts of the American industrial organization. Morris Hillquit proposed, at the recent congress of the second (Socialist) International in Brussels, an explanation which would save the validity of Marxism if it were true. He declared that the intensification of production in the United States, which gives the laborer this excess over the necessities of life, also wears down his physical resistance and shortens his life. These statements are not borne out by the American death rate or by observed facts in American industry. In no country are labor saving devices so carefully studied and put into use as in the United States, and in no country has paternalism in industry gone so far. It appears that the example of America has thoroughly undermined the most sacred of the dogmas of Karl Marx, and until some inspired Socialist succeeds in making the theory cover the facts there is little likelihood that collectivist ideas will penetrate American labor.

ALCOHOLISM UNDER PROHIBITION.

ALCOHOLISM under prohibition is somewhat different from this form of drug effect as it was prior to ten years ago. Some of the differences are noted by Drs. Richardson and Blankenhorn. They are not comparing the amount of liquor consumed nor the effect of prohibition on crime. Their comparison is between the alcoholism of ten years ago, when men bought liquor over the bar, with the same disease now when they buy it from a bootlegger.

Some of their conclusions follow:

1. In acute alcoholism, or in other words, a plain drunk, there is an early loss of consciousness, a slight febrile reaction, and a transient albuminuria. In the old days, I presume, the urine of ordinary drunks was not examined for albumin and the temperature was not taken. It is difficult to say whether these symptoms were the same then as now. The first finding, put in another way, is that the present drinking is likely to put a man under the table more promptly than was the case before.
2. In six cases severe effects were due to other poisons taken along with the alcohol, generally through ignorance and exposures that could not have been readily avoided.
3. A considerable proportion of the traffic addicts are due to alcoholism.
4. The chronic drinker has changed his technique. Instead of drinking steadily every day he now goes on sprees.
5. Old fashioned delirium tremens has almost entirely disappeared. This is probably due to uncertainty as to supply and greater difficulty in keeping contacts with purveyors—in this case, bootleggers.
6. Alcoholic neuritis now causes greater sensitiveness of the skin and greater weakness of the muscles.
7. The chronic drinker who lives due to chronic alcoholism follows the same type as that of the preprohibition period.

Dr. E. Bogen contributed an article on acute alcoholism which bears on some phases of questions raised by Drs. Richardson and Blankenhorn, though not in the main theme.

He found that there was no tolerance to liquor except the tolerance due to the rate of absorption from the stomach. The gentleman who "carried his liquor well" was merely one in whom absorption was slow. If a man acquired the art of carrying his liquor he had merely slowed up in stomach absorption. Whenever the proportion of alcohol in the body fluids reached a certain point the man was drunk. If he absorbed fast and excreted fast he would "carry poorly." If he absorbed slowly and excreted fast he would "carry well."

LEFT CONSIDERABLE CHOICE.

H. W. writes: You published a long list of alkaline foods. How about those who have too much alkaline? It seems to me there is only meat left for them. I drink distilled water, blood pressure is 115, am 60 years old. I guess I better eat everything and live as long as I can.

REPLY.
Among the foods which cause acid urine are most of all kinds, including fish, except breads of all kinds; all kinds of cereals; all foods made from grains; plums, prunes, cranberries, and under certain circumstances pineapple has the same effect. As you see, this leaves you considerable choice.

As a rule, elderly people in good health can eat about as they wish. However, a person 60 years of age and with a blood pressure of 115 should not regard himself as old.

SODA AND POISON.

Mrs. G. K. writes: Is baking soda good for poison ivy? I mixed it with warm water, as a neighbor told me to. It makes it itch more.

REPLY.
Soda water is sometimes used locally to relieve the itching. If it had the opposite effect in your case, by all means discontinue using it.

WOULD DIVORCE INSANE SPOUSE.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—It is possible to sue for a divorce where the wife is hopelessly insane at Kankakee and has been there since March, 1922?

I understand there was a case before the Supreme court in Illinois about five years ago, where a woman was committed in an insane asylum for over five years one would be able to obtain a decree.

Insanity subsequent to "marriage" is a ground for divorce in some states, but not in Illinois.

WHO PAYS FOR THE WINDOWS?
Chicago, Oct. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About a month ago both of the large plate glass windows in our store were broken by persons unknown. The landlord installed new windows a week later and now asks us to pay for them. We have been living here two years but we have no lease. Are we liable to pay for the windows?

D. E. J.
In general, a landlord is under no legal obligation to make good repairs, so that the loss ordinarily falls on the tenant, but it is possible you can take the position that he has acted as a volunteer, so that he cannot sue the cost over against you. This depends on all the facts as to his apparent intention and as to the necessity of emergency action.

TRIBUTE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A COURT MAY HAVE TO DECIDE.
Racine, Wis., Oct. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Under the terms of a will a sum of money is set aside, the income from which is to be paid to a beneficiary and at her death the principal to be equally divided between her two sons, names not mentioned in the will.

1. As the beneficiary has more than two sons, has she the right to specify in her will which two this principal is to be allotted to?

2. Provided the beneficiary makes no will, would this principal be given to the two oldest sons or divided among all of them?

1. No. If the original will contains no other wording to assist in determining the question, it may be necessary to apply to the court to construe it. 2. See 1.

DURING THE LAST twelve months these United States of America have paid the Dominion of Canada just twenty-four millions of dollars for alcoholic beverages. But, no! It is impossible that we should have paid Canada twenty-four millions of dollars for alcoholic beverages because the laws of our country say that alcoholic beverages cannot be imported. Twenty-four millions of dollars! Come on, ostrich, nice ostrich, pretty ostrich, take your foot head out of the sand and have a look.

BRUNKER LASHES BACK AT LINDSAY; THREATENS SUIT

Says He'll Take Airplane
Scandal Talk to Court.

Albert R. Brunker, executive chairman of the John A. Swanson Business Men's organization, announced in a formal statement yesterday that he would compel Judge William J. Lindsay to answer in court for his use of the "airplane scandal of 1918" as campaign material.

against me personally are concerned," the statement read, "they are not at issue in the campaign between Judge Swanson and the Democratic nominee. His half charge—made in the form of an inquiry to me—that I was ever saved from indictment for a part in the airplane scandal of 1918 I shall compel him to account for in court at the close of the campaign."

Renews His Own Charges.

Mr. Brunker declared that Judge Lindsay was making a desperate effort to divert public attention from the principal issues in the campaign. He also renewed his charges that the Democratic candidate for state's attorney was being supported by a bipartisan crew of "pay roll paddlers, ballot box thieves, protectors of criminals, gangsters, and plunderers of public funds."

In answer to the 1918 airplane scandal statements from the Democratic camp, Mr. Brunker said:

"As temporary district manager of the inspection department, aeronautical equipment division of the signal corps, I never accepted a cent of salary. Not only did I endorse over all salary checks for necessary office expense, but in addition paid out thousands of dollars from personal funds as my contribution to the maintenance of the department.

"The total expense for the department at the date of publication of the so-called airplane scandal of 1918 was less than $3,000. The office itself, had nothing to do with letting contracts or the handling of money of any kind or character, except the salaries of employees and office rent."

Judge Wilkerson, Mr. Brunker added, threw the case, to which he was not in any way a party, out of court before it ever reached a jury.

"Lindsay is the candidate of the most conscienceless combination of political highlanders that ever had their hands at the throat of law enforcement in Chicago," he concluded.

"Judge Swanson swamped Robert E. Crowe at the Republican primary on identically the same issue that now confronts the voters in the candidacy of Lindsay, whose election would mean merely a change of labels so far as the control of law enforcement in Cook county is concerned."

DEMOCRATS FOR CONGRESS FAVOR DRY LAW REPEAL

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—[Special.]—All but one of the Illinois Democratic congressional nominees who have responded thus far to the questionnaire sent out several weeks ago by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment favor repeal or drastic modification of both the 18th amendment and the Volstead act.

None of the Republican nominees, who were similarly canvassed, has answered, according to local officials of the association.

The one exception among the Illinois Democrats is William G. Curtis of Stockton, Ill., who is running in the 18th district against Representative W. R. Johnson, Republican.

He's Dry Democrat.

Curtis asserted in his answer: "The writer is a dry Democrat, but as there is no earthly chance of his election he won't be a thorn in your flesh, nor in the way with the new congress of December, 1929."

The others declared for state option as the only practicable solution of the prohibition problem and pledged themselves to support any program for amendment of the 18th amendment.

Emil Seltzer, 2800 North avenue, Chicago, who is running in the 7th district against Representative M. Alfred Michaelson, the Republican incumbent, asserted in his answer: "I am an avowed wet. I am running for this office on a strictly wet program, and intend to win or lose of that issue."

Henry P. Bergen, Democratic nominee in the 3d district against the veteran Representative E. W. Spruiell, declared the question was one to be settled by the states.

Walsh Favors Repeal.

Michael C. Walsh, 5824 Prairie avenue, Chicago, the Democrat opposing Representative Morton D. Hull, declared: "I favor a repeal of the 18th amendment—let states determine by referendum what they want done."

"I am against the prohibition amendment," wrote Edwin L. Wilson of Joliet, who is opposing Representative Frank Reid. "I favor repeal of the Volstead act."

"I am opposed to the 18th amendment in every way," declared Val B. Campbell of McLeanboro, Democratic nominee in the 34th district against Representative Thomas Williams. "I believe a sane plan should be worked out."

IN BEAUTY, comfort and distinction — in power and performance — the new Packard Standard Eight is comparable to the finest cars Packard has ever produced. Yet Packard Standard Eight prices are the lowest at which a Packard Eight has ever been offered.

Like the new Custom and De Luxe models, the Standard Eight embodies the new and unique Packard Shock Absorbing System which, combined with deep, luxurious cushions, makes the Packard Eight the easiest riding car in the world—as well as the safest.

Not only is the Packard Eight the safest to drive, but it is the safest to buy from the standpoint of long-life ownership.

First, because owners have established that a Packard provides distinguished transportation for nearly four times the payment period. Second, because it is not the Packard policy to obsolete cars in service by frequent and radical changes in design. And, third, because the trend in eight-cylinder motor cars is very definitely toward the straight eight.

The new Packard Straight Eight powerplant, with its nine-bearing crankshaft, is a marvel of rugged, compact simplicity. Perfected from the experience of 30 years of engine design, it provides a smooth and flexible power flow that is unequalled—performance both brilliant and dependable.

We will fairly appraise your present car and accept it as cash. If it is of average value it should more than make the down payment on a Packard Standard Eight, leaving but small monthly payments which you can conveniently meet.

POLISH-AMERICAN GROUP IS FORMED TO BACK HOOVER

Base Campaign on Relief Record in Poland.

An intensive campaign to swing the normally Democratic Polish-American vote to Hoover was started last night by the formation of an executive committee composed of influential Polish-American citizens, who will direct the movement.

Anthony Carneski, collector of customs in Chicago, is credited with the initiation of the Hoover program among the Polish-American citizens. Having accompanied the Hoover party in its relief expedition into Poland after the signing of the armistice, Mr. Carneski has recruited followers on the basis of his first-hand account of Mr. Hoover's activity in behalf of Poland.

Tells of Work in Poland.

When Hoover went into Poland, according to Mr. Carneski's version, he placed uniformed American officers and men in charge of the relief work. Notwithstanding that Polish women and children had so suffered from military oppression that at that time they ran to cover on sight of a soldier, they immediately thronged about the American relief workers, so sympathetic were they to the Hoover program, Mr. Carneski said.

On the other hand, despite the fact that there are 102 Polish Catholic parishes in the state of New York and that there are a number of Polish settlements in the New York assembly, Mr. Carneski complains that Gov. Smith, during his four terms, has never recognized the Poles to the extent of appointing them to any of the commissions.

"Gov. Smith," said Mr. Carneski, "has pursued the same policy of non-recognition to the Poles in New York as Len Small has in Illinois. But at election time the Democrats pour money into the Polish communities, give banquets and distribute free tickets among the Poles in an attempt to make them forget their nonparticipation in the government."

Polish Leaders in Group.

Among the members of the executive committee are John Romaszko, Max Hencel and Louis Pinder, all officials of the Polish national chamber; John S. Rybicki and Stanley Jakowski, officials of the Polish Roman Catholic union; and Albert Menicki, secretary of the Polish-American Gold Star Fathers' and Mothers' association.

Among the other members of the committee, which includes many prominent business and professional men, are:

Anthony Carneski, John S. Wierzycki, Frank Fala, August P. Moss, Leo Szymanski, K. B. Orosz, Frank Pali, Michael V. Ostrowski, John F. Konopa, J. T. Skrzydlewski, J. J. Roman, Leo J. Szyk, Joe J. Among the members of the committee from other cities of the state are: New York, Joseph Baryczek of La Salle; Michigan, Pietrak of Oglethorpe; Frank J. Sienkiewicz of Joliet; and John Godlewski of East St. Louis.

CHARGES HOTELS ARE SELLING USE OF CITY STREETS

Taxi Companies Buy Space, Lawyer Says.

Several loop hotels, with police aid, are engaged in bartering the use of the public streets to taxicab concerns, says Arthur F. Albert, attorney for the Checker Cab company, charged yesterday before the council committee on traffic.

So aroused were the councilmen at Albert's assertions that Chairman Thomas J. Bowler (41st) named the entire group as a special subcommittee to make an investigation.

Charges Conspiracy.

Attorney Albert appeared before the committee to protest "a conspiracy between city officials, hotel men, and the police to sell monopolies on cab stands." It is the practice for the hotels to auction public street space in front of their buildings to the highest bidder and to enforce the illegal contract with police, who drive off cabs of rival companies and private cars, Albert declared. At this charge the aldermen appeared to be astonished.

"Do you mean to tell us the hotels are renting or selling parking space in the streets?" demanded Ald. A. K. Mose (50th).

"I do," Albert replied.

"What proof can you offer?" the alderman queried.

"Well," answered the attorney, unabashed, "the Checker company is paying the Morrison hotel $450 a month for its taxi concession. We bid $1,000 a month for the La Salle, $400 for the Bismarck and made overtures to the Stevens, but I guess we bid too low."

Yellows Get La Salle.

The La Salle stand is occupied by the Yellow Cab company and the Stevens stand by the De Luxe Cab company. The yellow company also serves the Sherman and other big downtown hotels exclusively.

"It's all very simple," Albert continued, after the alderman had subjected him to a cross-fire of questions. "The hotel makes a deal with the cab company, then gives the police vehicle bureau the name of the concessionaire. Police men see to it that no rival cabs are allowed on the stand."

The attorney added that the Checker company would be glad to cancel

JUDGE ALLOWS CITY APPEAL IN CAR FUND CASE

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday entered an order allowing the city to appeal from his decree of July 18 in which he held that the $10,000,000 in the special fund set aside by the Chicago Railways company, under a provision of the ordinance of 1907, is subject to the liens held on the various mortgages of the lines. The street car company and the Harris Trust and Savings bank, which is representing the bondholders and other petitioning creditors, declined to join in the appeal. A severance was granted to the city and it will prosecute its appeal alone.

Held as Slayer of Roommate.

George Elson, 55 years old, was held at Maxwell street police station last night charged with killing James Cornas with whom he shared a room at 701 South Halsted street. Other roomers said they heard the two men quarreling. Cornas was found dead with a shotgun charge in his chest.

BRITAIN CANNOT TRUST U. S., SAYS LONDON BANKER

Member of Parliament Makes Bitter Attack.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] LONDON, Oct. 16.—"We cannot trust the United States. The United States is trying to dominate this country."

This statement was made tonight by Samuel Samuel, Conservative member of parliament for one of the London constituencies, addressing the "1912 club."

Mr. Samuel is one of the wealthiest bankers in England, a partner of the Samuel company, bankers and merchants, 73 years old and a bachelor. He is one of the leading oil magnates and managing director of the Shell Transport and Trading company.

Charles U. S. Deceives Britain.

"For its own purposes the United States induced Great Britain to abrogate the treaty with Japan—a fatal mistake on Great Britain's part," Mr. Samuel said. "They then persuaded this country to enter an agreement, as far as China was concerned, for common action by Great Britain, Japan, and the United States. But the United States again played us false."

"At the outset of the present troubles, when Great Britain and Japan wanted to take action, the United States refused to join, and under the terms of the treaty England and Japan could not take any steps. Meantime they utilized their position to pose as friends of China. They prevented the allies from interfering with China. It was the Americans who took the principal part in leading the boycott against Great Britain in China."

Defends Anglo-French Accord.

Switching to the subject of the Anglo-French naval agreement, Mr. Samuel insisted that there is nothing at all in the agreement prejudicial to the United States, or any other country.

"Yet America, asked for a fleet equal to that of Great Britain, but did not want this country to build sufficient for the protection of its vast colonial and empire requirements," he said. "The whole agitation is political and against British interests. We cannot trust the United States."

TONG WAR QUIETS DOWN; GUNMEN INVADE LAUNDRY

The Chinese tong war that began with killings in Chicago, Washington, New York and Philadelphia on Sunday had quieted down yesterday to such an extent that the only disorder reported was an unsuccessful attempt to kill a laundryman at 239 South Robey street.

The intended victim, was Ongeau Beto. Two Chinese entered his place and after one had asked for a match the other began shooting. Beto ducked under a counter and six bullets missed him. Then the assailants fled. Beto declared he was not connected with either the Hip Sing or On Leong tongs.

Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege expressed the opinion that the so-called war was about over. He had been informed, he said, that tong leaders had agreed on a truce. In the courts there were two cases in connection with the battles. Moy Chang, 202 West 32d street, arrested for carrying a pistol on Monday, was granted a continuance in the South Clark street court. In the Federal court Moy You, an On Leong, obtained a continuance on a charge of possessing opium.

EVERYBODY BUT THE MAYOR JOINS STRIKE IN LODZ

Poles Walk Out to Aid Textile Workers.

WARSAW, Oct. 16.—(AP)—A general strike enforced in behalf of striking textile workers has halted almost all commercial and municipal activities in Lodz.

Members of the municipal council, which is composed mostly of Socialists, closed down their desks and joined in the walkout. Only Mayor Ziemiecki, a Socialist, remained at his post directing relief measures for the families of the strikers.

Employees of the city sewage and water departments were forced to quit work. Street cars were stopped and chauffeurs abandoned their automobiles. All theaters and most of the motion picture houses called off their performances. Printers joined in the walkout, but returned to work this afternoon. Soldiers were placed around the telephone exchange to assure connection for all government calls.

Mexico Blocks Textile Tieup.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Operators who have been threatening to close down cotton mills in the states of Puebla and Tlaxcala to relieve overproduction have been notified by Dr. José Puig Casauranc, secretary of commerce, that such a move would be illegal. President Calles, the secretary said, considered closure an attempt against order and social welfare.

The operators claimed that trade stagnation and high wages made competition impossible. Dr. Puig Casauranc agreed with them in stating that the textile industry was going through an acute crisis.

The secretary said that an official investigation would be necessary before a stoppage of work was allowed. He proposed that the situation, which threatens to throw several thousand workers into idleness, be settled by arbitration.

26 Injured in Australian Riot.

NEWCASTLE, N. S. W., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Twenty men were taken to a hospital today following an attack by about 300 strikers upon volunteer waterside workers engaged near the custom house wharf. A large force of police made a baton charge to drive the strikers back.

Despite this trouble, it was generally believed the strike of waterside workers is drawing to a close and the Melbourne, Australia, Herald predicts the men will be back at work by tomorrow.

DELAY SENDING ONCE WEALTHY INVENTOR TO PEN

St. Joseph, Mich., Oct. 16.—(Special)—Willard Irwin Osgood Twombly, once wealthy inventor, sentenced on Monday by Judge C. E. White in Circuit court here, will not leave to begin his six months to five years sentence at Jackson state penitentiary at Jackson, Mich., until the latter part of this week.

Twombly has been visited every day in jail here by his sweetheart, Julia Mashek. The wife, Mrs. Ethel Twombly, had lodged charges of bigamy and illegal cohabitation against her husband, from whom she has been separated several years. She named Julia Mashek.

When called into court Twombly entered a plea of guilty to adultery, which carries a lesser sentence than the bigamy charge. He went back to the county jail, where he had been confined since July, when he was extradited from California on charges of nonsupport and bigamy. He was unable to supply bonds of $5,000, despite his reputed wealth. He was arrested in Los Angeles on a warrant issued in New York. When New York authorities refused to prosecute he was turned over to Berrien authorities at the petition of the wife.

An attempted settlement on the all-mony question involving the support of eight year old Gloria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Twombly, failed. Twombly admits fatherhood of a child born to Julia Mashek in Los Angeles last June.

Twombly once possessed half a million dollars, earned from his inventions and the sale of his radio tube factory.

"Julia is a noble girl," Twombly says. "Some day I will be divorced and marry her."

The new OLYMPIAN

MECHANICAL genius has given the new Olympian everything known to modern transportation. The wonder of six hundred and sixty miles, through glorious mountain scenery, on the wings of an irresistible force—electricity. The sensation of gliding on silent roller bearings.

Name every appointment known to provide comfort in travel—ladies' lounge, baths, club-observation cars, coil spring mattresses, appetizing meals—on down the list and you'll find them all on the Olympian.

Yet there is something beyond these physical things that accounts for the Olympian's standing among its many friends. An atmosphere of quality, of well being, of contentment prevails that distinguishes this famous train from all others.

RANDOLPH ST. VIADUCT PLANS AGAIN DELAYED

I. C. Patrons Still Walk Two Extra Blocks.

Long delayed action on the construction of the Randolph street viaduct and the Illinois Central suburban station is likely to be further delayed. It was learned yesterday that the much discussed revised lake front ordinance would not go before the South Park commissioners for approval at the regular meeting today. For nearly a month, engineers and lawyers representing the Illinois Central and the South Parks have met in periodic conferences to discuss the various phases of the new ordinance. Nothing final has been done at these meetings. They have not proceeded beyond a general discussion of the document, both parties state. And while the protracted discussion continues, 10,000 patrons of the railroad are compelled to walk two additional blocks because of makeshift terminal facilities provided by the Illinois Central.

No Action in Sight Today. On Oct. 3 it was announced that the last conference had been held and that the matter was ready for submission to the railroad's board of directors and to the park commissioners at the meeting today. A memorandum setting forth the points of difference between the two parties was prepared for presentation to the two boards.

But no action will be taken today. Supt. George T. Donoghue of the South Parks stated that the memorandum had been forwarded to park officials only last Friday, giving insufficient time for the preparation of the matter for the commissioners' consideration today. Daniel J. Schuyler, representing the railroad, thought that another "preliminary" conference would be necessary. After this conference Mr. Donoghue said a special meeting of the commissioners would be called to consider the matter.

Bonds O. K'd Two Years Ago. The interstate commerce commission more than two years ago gave the Illinois Central authority to issue bonds to raise money for the construction of the station. The previous lake front and Illinois Central ordinance called for its completion on Feb. 20, 1927. Since the ordinance was drawn the railroad dug a hole 15 feet deep and filled it with concrete, which today stands where the completed station should be. Construction has not proceeded beyond this point.

No wide disagreement exists between the park board and the railroad as to the stipulations in the revised ordinance. The minor differences will be readily ironed out when the two groups once get down to the business of putting their approval on the document, the conferees say.

Woman, Child Disappear; Father Asks Police Aid

James Stewart, 632 West 49th street, last night requested the Stockyards police to search for his daughter, Margaret, 4 years old, whom Mrs. Dorothy Minnie, 24 years old, 630 West 49th street, took shopping yesterday with the permission of the mother. Neither Mrs. Minnie nor Marie has been heard from since, Stewart said.

COUNTY WILL BEGIN REVALUATION OF ALL REAL ESTATE NOV. 1

Revaluation of Cook county real estate will begin Nov. 1, Director Harry S. Cutmore announced yesterday. On that day field workers will go out into the city to give an accurate description of every building and parcel of property. This information will be studied by a staff of experts and will form the basis for the future valuation of the property.

Meanwhile Ald. Ross A. Woodhull plans to introduce a resolution in the city council today calling upon the city to pledge $280,000 in its 1929 budget to aid the revaluation. A verbal clash between State Senator John Dalley, chairman of the Illinois revenue commission, and Thomas O'Grady, one of the members, was caused by the charge yesterday that Edward R. Litsinger of the board of review granted tax valuation reductions totaling more than $2,000,000 to Montgomery Ward & Co. When Senator Dalley continued the hearing until next Tuesday, O'Grady declared that an attempt was being made to delay the investigation until after election day.

GANGSTERS KILL AND ROB IN DAY JOBS IN NEW YORK

Beer Runner Duel Fatal; Pay Roll Is Seized.

New York, Oct. 16.—[Special.]—Gangsters invaded the busy mid-town today—once early this morning to stage a gun battle on Broadway in which a man was killed and another badly wounded—and again this afternoon to steal a $7,000 pay roll and wound a private detective in front of the plant of P. L. Smythe, Inc., machine manufacturers, in the "Roaring Forties."

The Broadway duel, police are convinced, was the result of a Bronx beer runner's war. Joseph Noe, said to be a bootlegger and racketeer, is in Roosevelt hospital, near death. Louis Weinberg, ex-convict, is dead.

Hold Up Payroll. The pay roll robbery took place while detectives still were combing mid-town speakeasies and bars for clues to the feud back of the Broadway shooting.

Two armed bandits, ignoring scores of persons passing in the street, stepped up to two private detectives who had just left a taxicab with the payroll, ordered them to hand over the money, and fired point blank at James Geiselman, Pinkerton operative, who carried the payroll bag.

The bullet struck Geiselman in the fact, inflicting a flesh wound. The bandits leaped into a car in which two other men were sitting and sped away.

Duel Startles Broadway. The Broadway duel, shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, threw the residents of several hotels into panic. The fusillade of shots brought scores of persons to the street in time to see a big blue sedan speed east on 54th street and disappear.

Near the corner, only a few steps from the 54th Street club, lay Joseph Noe with bullet wounds in his right breast, lower spine, and left hand.

An hour later a blue Cadillac sedan was found and in the rear seat Weinberg's body was crumpled.

The verdict was ordered by Judge Otto Kerner to be sealed and opened this morning.

GOVERNOR YOUNG REFUSES TO SAVE HICKMAN'S LIFE

Answer to Mother's Plea
Is "Youth Is Sane."

Sacramento, Cal., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Gov. C. C. Young of California refused today to interfere with the execution of William Edward Hickman set for Friday morning at San Quentin prison.

The governor made this known immediately following conferences with Jerome Walsh, Kansas City, attorney for Hickman, and Thomas Hickman of El Paso, Tex., father of the condemned youth.

Both Walsh and Hickman's father based their pleas for executive clemency on the contention that the slayer of 12-year-old Marian Parker, Los Angeles school girl, was insane and unaccountable for his acts.

Earlier the governor had received a letter from Mrs. Hickman, the youth's mother.

"If you can understand the feeling of a heart broken mother," the letter read, "please have mercy on my poor son. This is breaking my heart to see my boy killed, for he was not himself. Won't you open your heart to my plea and give him life in prison? If you only show mercy only God will know the appreciation of my humble and broken heart. My only prayer is please don't kill my boy but give him life."

[Signed] "EDWARD'S MOTHER."

Mrs. Eva M. Hickman.

But One Chance Left.

The governor said he had studied all phases of the Hickman testimony, believed Hickman sane and that he had received a fair trial.

There remains but one more chance

GIL BOAG PREPARES TO SUE GILDA GRAY FOR DIVORCE IN ENGLAND

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 16.—(AP)—An action to annul the marriage in 1924 of Gilda Gray, stage and screen dancer, to Gil Boag, was ordered started in London, England, today, by Milton Golden, Los Angeles attorney for Boag. The attorney stated he had received a cable from Boag, who is in London, that he was prepared to proceed with the annulment suit, and Golden's British legal representative he sent instructions in the case.

Golden added that a stack of certified copies of documents, purporting to include "charges of a scandalous nature" against the dancer were forwarded to the London barristers. These documents were furnished by Boag in preparation for filing the annulment action, which he will seek on the ground of "prenuptial fraud."

to save Hickman from the noose, the governor told Walsh. That is if Walsh can persuade Warden James B. Holman of San Quentin to order an investigation of the condemned youth's sanity.

With this bit of hope, the attorney and the elder Hickman plan to visit Young Hickman at the state prison tomorrow.

FARM AND TRADE GIVE THEIR VIEWS ON RAIL DISPUTE

Representatives of business, farming and manufacturing were given an opportunity to state their views yesterday regarding the wage controversy between the fifty-five western railroads and their 70,000 train service employees.

Appearing before the federal fact-finding commission, which is hearing the dispute, representatives of the Illinois Manufacturers' association and the American Farm Bureau federation testified on the effect any changes of railroad wages and freight rates would have on them as the public consumer and shipper.

M. S. Winder, secretary of the farm bureau, said the farmers merely requested that they be considered in the wage dispute as it is the farmer who ultimately bears most of the burden. The farmer, he said, pays 90 per cent of the total freight revenue of the railroads and believes he should be considered in any negotiations for a wage increase that would bring similar advances in freight rates.

Colin Fyffe, general counsel for the Illinois Manufacturers' association, said the average wage received by the trainmen as compared with workers in other lines of endeavor is higher when based on a weekly average.

Mr. Winder requested that the farmers' dilemma be considered in the wage increases. He said he was advocating neither an increase nor a decrease but wanted the federal fact-finding commission to consider the agricultural interests in the controversy.

The Association of Commerce also complained against any increase in the burden of the average man through higher rates.

ARREST 65 IN RAID.
Sixty-five men were arrested yesterday in a police raid on an alleged gambling resort at Taylor street and Marshall avenue, said to be owned by Red Holton.

JUDGE IS MERRY AND SO ARE ALL BUT MR. PULASKI

With Bricks and Stories
It's Funny Business.

There was yesterday in Judge Joseph B. David's court one Casimir Pulaski, 2222 South Albany avenue, claiming to be a direct descendant of his namesake, Count Casimir Pulaski of Revolutionary war fame. There was also Jacob Kaleta, 2222 South Albany avenue, claiming $5,000 from Pulaski for injuries suffered when he was struck with a brick. There was a Polish interpreter, and the judge was in a merry mood. There was much laughter.

Attorneys intimated that Kaleta needed an interpreter to assist in telling his story to the jury. Judge David scoffed at this suggestion and started the questioning himself.

"What is your name?" he asked. "Well," said the witness, "there is Casimir Kaleta and Wladyslaw Kaleta and Jacob Kaleta. I'm Jacob."

The Judge Told One. "Maybe we do need an interpreter," said the judge. "By the way, that reminds me of a story."

He told a funny story of a Chinese interpreter, using Chinese dialect. He got a fair hand, but the real hit was made by the court stenographer, who revealed unexpected dramatic talent in attempting to transcribe the case into shorthand.

"Kaleta," through an interpreter, told the jury. In September, 1927, he went on the sidewalk in front of his home and was suddenly assaulted by Pulaski and his wife.

"They struck me on the head with a brick and a bar of iron," he declared. "For two weeks I didn't feel very good."

Judge David, looking around the courtroom, noticed Count Pulaski's descendant in the defendant's chair.

"Stop rolling your eyes and shaking your head," commanded the judge.

Rebuke Saddens Pulaski. Pulaski obeyed. Tears welled in his eyes and rolled down his cheeks at the reprimand. He remained silent during the remainder of the hearing, the only glorious exception to the general rule.

"Didn't you try to sell moonshine to Pulaski?" Kaleta was asked on cross-examination. There were vigorous objections.

"It's a nice point," said the judge. "Supposing it could be proved that his own moonshine so stimulated his neighbor that the latter came over and hit him with a brick—that might be a mitigating circumstance."

However, Kaleta denied the moonshine incident. Today Pulaski's side of the case will be presented to the jury. He claims he, instead of Kaleta, was hit with the brick.

STRIKER'S HOME SITE OF LATEST KENOSHA BOMB

Police Are Puzzled by Explosion Cause.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 16.—[Special.]—Bomb No. 17 rocked Kenosha tonight, shattering the interval of comparative peace which prevailed since Sept. 28, when four strikers were arrested for kidnaping a knitter in the Allen A. mills.

The newest bomb, constructed of dynamite, was placed in a garbage can behind a garage in the rear of the home of Maceo Kueny, member of the general strike committee of the knitters' union. It blew the container to bits and splintered the rear wall of the garage.

Kueny was attending a strikers' meeting and his wife was visiting neighbors when the blast came, reverberating with a roar heard throughout the city.

Kueny's home has been guarded for two months and Deputy Sheriff John McGovern was on guard duty when the explosion occurred. McGovern said he saw a roadster pass the house five or six times during the evening, but was unable to state how many persons were in the car.

Only once before during the six months' dissension between the union and the mills has a striker been a victim of violence. About two months ago a black powder bomb was tossed in the front yard of Eric Tillman, like Maceo a member of the general strike committee. No damage resulted.

Two of the four strikers arrested for kidnaping a knitter were bound over for trial in the Municipal court following a preliminary hearing earlier in the day. Each of the men—Lawrence Schilling, 20 years old, and Carl Hau- brich, 20 years old—produced $1,500 bond.

The other two men awaiting trial are Oliver Huxhold, 21, and Dwight Jones, 21.

"Distinction in entertaining today depends less on lavish display, it seems to me, than on fastidious attention to small things. It is amazing to realize, for instance, how much the success of any social gathering depends upon good coffee. No woman can afford to offer her guests any other than the best. I find that the delicious blended flavor of Maxwell House Coffee is appreciated by men and women alike."

informality in entertaining

MRS. JOHN GARFIELD is a woman of great charm and many vital interests.

First and foremost the devoted mother of five delightful children, Mrs. Garfield finds time also for important directive work in Cleveland charities; and as mistress of the historic Garfield homestead she plays an exacting social rôle with beautifully effortless distinction.

It is a gracious custom in the Garfield home for

Mrs. Garfield herself to serve the after-dinner coffee to her guests. "I find," she says, "that the delicious blended flavor of Maxwell House Coffee is appreciated by men and women alike."

Appreciation of the special blend of coffee flavors that is the glory of Maxwell House began years ago in the Old South, where men and women were bred in a tradition of good living.

A Southerner, pledged to find the perfect coffee flavor, tried and tested hundreds of coffees. He combined them and re-combined them, until he achieved a flavor rich and mellow that delighted his critical palate.

Whoever since then has tasted this choice flavor has wanted Maxwell House Coffee in his own home, to serve to his guests, to please himself. Let your family enjoy Maxwell House Coffee at dinner and at breakfast. Your grocer has it.

This colorful drawing represents a scene of high festivity at the famous old hotel in Nashville, where the rich blended flavor of Maxwell House Coffee won its first renown. Hundreds of choice coffee flavors were patiently combined and re-combined by an expert before that special rich and mellow blend was achieved. The luxury-loving people of the Old South recognized at once the shade of difference in flavor that distinguishes Maxwell House Coffee from all other coffees and makes it today the choice of America's most powerful social leaders.

Gentlemen:-

When I was eight or nine years of age I had a very bad case of scarlet fever. By the time I was sixteen I was practically bald all over the top of my head.

In September 1927, almost twenty-five years later, a friend of mine told me of the success one of his friends had had with the treatments given by the Hair & Scalp Institute.

Up to the present time I have taken forty treatments. My hair is entirely covered with new hair from a fraction of an inch to two or three inches in length and my skeptical friends are now beginning to say they actually believe it is going to grow.

Considering the length of time I have been bald I am more than pleased with the results thus far attained. You can count on me twice a week for two or three times forty treatments, if necessary. I most heartily recommend your treatments because I KNOW they will grow hair.

Very truly yours,

FEC/M

SEVERAL RADIO STATIONS PUT ON NEW DIALINGS

Bosses Make Effort to Please Everybody.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—[Special.]—Several Chicago and downstate Illinois broadcasting stations which complained of harsh treatment in the reallocation order which becomes effective Nov. 11, were granted more favorable assignments of frequency, power, or time on the air in orders issued by the federal radio commission today. Chief among the stations benefited by the modification is WCFL, the station owned and operated by the Chicago Federation of Labor.

WCFL, in the reallocation, was assigned to a frequency of 620 kilocycles, which it was to share with stations WJJD and WRM, and was authorized to use a maximum power of 1,000 watts. Representatives of the federation appealed to the commission, and as a result WCFL was shifted to 570 kilocycles, which had been exclusively assigned to station KTR at Seattle, Wash.

More Power for WCFL. Under the order WCFL may broadcast daily until sunset in Seattle, which is approximately three hours later than sunset in Chicago. In addition, a construction permit, authorizing the station to use as high as 50,000 watts power for experimental purposes or for unusual broadcasts, was issued. It was announced by the commission.

Station WAAF, owned and operated by the Drovers' Journal Publishing company, which was assigned to a frequency of 540 kilocycles after Nov. 11, will broadcast on 520 kilocycles instead, and WPCO, the North Shore Congregational church station at Zion, Ill., which was to have broadcast on 1,100 kilocycles and shared time on the air with WVO and KXTV, will use a frequency of 1,080 kilocycles and share with WMBI.

Changes Downstate. WBAO, the station operated by the James Millikin university at Decatur, Ill., will be combined with station WBL, and the combined station, under the new order, will broadcast on a frequency of 1,120 kilocycles, using 100 watts power. WCAZ, the Carthage college station at Carthage, Ill., will be restricted to daylight hours under the new order, will broadcast on a frequency of 1,120 kilocycles, using 100 watts power. WCAZ, the Carthage college station at Carthage, Ill., will be restricted to daylight hours under the new order, will broadcast on a frequency of 1,120 kilocycles, using 100 watts power.

U. S. FILES SUIT TO ENFORCE ACT GOVERNING RADIO

The first attempt of the government to compel compliance with the provisions of the radio act of 1927 was begun yesterday when District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson filed suit in the federal court to enforce the operation of radio broadcasting station WMBB-WOK without a license from the Federal Radio commission. The station is operated jointly by the American Bond and Mortgage company and by Tri-Union, Inc., a corporation owning dance halls in the city.

For the last year the station operated under license from the commission and was permitted to broadcast on a frequency of 1,190 kilocycles, using a power of 5,000 watts. Their application for a renewal of the license, filed Sept. 2, was denied on the ground that the station was not in compliance with the provisions of the act which requires equal allocation of broadcasting licenses to each of five zones.

The station is used to advertise the business of the defendants and time is sold to outside advertisers wishing to use their broadcasting facilities, the bill of complaint alleges. Before their application for renewal was denied the defendants were given a hearing by the radio commission so that they could present evidence showing that the renewal would serve public interest and necessity.

Now the operators of the station have announced their intention of resuming operation on Oct. 22, in defiance of the order of the commission denying them a renewal of the license, the bill states. This operation, the government contends, would constitute an obstruction of interstate commerce in the transmission of intelligence.

A motion for a temporary injunction pending final determination of the suit has been filed by the government.

Elmer Enjoys Broadcast of Kipling Poems

Finds W-G-N New York Program Colorful.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The all-Kipling program from New York, through W-G-N, 8 to 9, was radio's most ambitious offering last evening. The various musical settings and Kipling's poems, including "Gunga Din," "Danny Deever," "Mandalay," and "Boots," are so thoroughly familiar that comment upon either the music or the poems is uncalled for. However, this was the first all-Kipling program we have had, and it was full of color and of universal appeal.

The story of the disputed election of 1876 between Hayes and Tilden, as related by Announcer Quinn Ryan, W-G-N, 8 to 10, was not only fitting at this period of political interest but it was something that all school children should have heard. School teachers find it worth while to keep this Tuesday evening series of American historical episodes in mind. Amid the excitement of the present election the history of past elections should not be neglected when the chance to hear them put over attractively by Announcer Ryan is presented.

Every evening turning the dial, I pause whenever the tones of a pipe organ are detected. But it is only a momentary pause. The majestic pipe organ is one of the world's most precious musical instruments for which the greatest composers of all the ages have poured out their finest inspirations. But do we ever hear any of these great compositions over the air except during church services broadcast on Sundays? Never. Every day, over and over, about all that emanates from this great instrument is trivial, commonplace, popular, sentimental music, usually unworthy of the instrument and unworthy of the talents of our organists.

There are vast numbers of lovers of good, high class organ music. Who will be the first to break the ground for better things in this field?

PARIS PREPARES TO PARK AUTOS BENEATH GROUND

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York Times.) PARIS, Oct. 16.—Paris attacked with vigor and originality today one of the most serious phases of its complicated traffic problems. The prefect of police, M. Chiappe, announced that he would select a definite site tomorrow for the first of a series of "understreet" garages, to relieve congestion caused by parking in narrow streets in the capital.

The first subterranean automobile parking ground will be somewhere under the Place de la Bourse, where the stock exchange is situated. Others will be under the Rue de la Paix and at other strategic points. The first of these is projected for the grand boulevard, just below the new intersection created where the Boulevard Haussmann joins them. Traffic on the grand boulevard would flow in both directions as usual with cross town vehicles running under them.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS HOME. John Miller, 75 years old, 4224 North Robert street, was found asphyxiated in the kitchen of his home yesterday by his wife. Mrs. Miller was found by her husband when he returned from shopping. Mr. Miller told the police her husband had been ill for some time and was unable to find employment.

FIVE 'MELONS' TO SLICE UP FOR QUARTER BILLION

BY O. A. MATHER.

American industrial corporations set a record yesterday for melon cuttings. Five companies announced recapitalization plans which will yield upward of $250,000,000 to their stockholders, based on current market quotations for their stocks. Furthermore, other big distributions in the near future were foreseen.

Montgomery Ward & Co., a Chicago mail order house, led off with a plan that figures to be worth nearly $200,000,000. The directors voted to increase the authorized common stock from 1,250,000 to 8,000,000 shares and to give stockholders the right to subscribe to two new shares at $17.50 a share for each share held. The company now has 1,141,251 shares outstanding, it will issue 2,525,000 additional shares, and will hold 1,578,547 shares in the treasury.

Stock Around $22 at Close.

Montgomery Ward stock closed yesterday around $22 after selling up to $22.50. Earlier this year it sold as low as $17. At yesterday's final price the new stock would be worth about 109 and the right to subscribe to new shares would be worth about $12 on each present share. It is proposed to pay $2.50 annually on the increased stock, which is equivalent to $7.50 on the present issue, which now pays $5 a year.

In connection with the recapitalization, President George B. Everett announced plans for developing the largest general merchandising chain in the world. The company will devote nearly $40,000,000 from the sale of stock, from which it will pay off $7,555,000 bonds of subsidiary concerns.

The balance will be available for expansion, as also will be the remaining treasury stock.

Effects Chain Stores' Profits.

"During the last two years we have been developing a chain of stores from which large volume and satisfactory profits are being obtained," Mr. Everett said. "By the end of this year more than 200 chain stores will be in operation, and our program provides for opening at least 200 additional stores each year."

"There are approximately 1,500 towns in which we believe stores can be operated profitably, and our plans contemplate covering the country thoroughly. In addition, we are establishing retail stores in the larger cities, and expect to extend this activity rapidly. For the nine months ended Sept. 30 profits are substantially above the same period last year, and it appears possible for this year will exceed any previous record. Much of our expansion thus far has been financed out of earnings."

Texas Oil Plans Melon.

The Texas corporation, one of the largest independent factors in the oil industry, announced a stock offering which will value of around $26,700,000. The company announced that it will purchase one additional share at $40 for each share held. Texas stock closed yesterday around 70 1/2, which would make the new stock sell around $6 and the present shares rights worth $34 each.

The company now has 8,448,728 shares outstanding and will issue 1,406,258 additional shares. The proceeds from the new issue will be $56,321,520, which will be used in expanding the facilities of subsidiaries. Stockholders may pay for the new shares in two equal installments on Jan. 15 and April 2, 1929, and will receive the first quarter dividend on the new stock.

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company announced a stock offering worth nearly $6,000,000. Stockholders of record Oct. 29 may purchase one additional share at $50 for each four shares held. Goodyear stock closed yesterday at 85, which would make the new shares sell at 75 and give the present shares rights worth $7 each. The company now has $43,596 shares outstanding, and will issue 210,895 additional shares. The proceeds of the offering will be used to retire $7,500,000 of maturing notes and for plant expansion.

TOPICS OF FINANCE, TRADE AND INDUSTRY

More than 40,000 shares of the Engineering Public Service company, Inc., $5 dividend convertible preferred have been turned into common, following the recent declaration of an initial common payment. The basis of conversion now announced, President Charles W. Kellogg announced, from 21 shares of common for each 10 preferred to 19 common for each 10 preferred.

The American States Public Service company in the near future will purchase several gas and electric properties, which will more than double its size.

Copper production by countries which furnish about 88 per cent of the world's total was 154,518 short tons in September, compared with 144,838 tons in August, 153,190 tons in July, and 131,391 tons in September of last year. Stocks of refined lead in the United States and Mexico at the end of September totaled 48,732 tons, compared with 52,831 tons at the end of August and 53,888 tons at the end of July.

The Cotton Future Brokers' association has called a meeting for tomorrow to consider again adoption of exclusive fifty bale unit for future market. The unit at the present is 100 bales.

Steel input production is slightly higher this week, the average for the industry being estimated at nearly 88 per cent of capacity, against a fraction over 87 per cent.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended Oct. 6 totaled 1,186,588 cars, the car service division of the American Railway association announced yesterday. This was a decrease of 10,170 cars compared with the preceding week, but an increase of $3,604 cars above the same week in 1927 and 11,470 cars above the corresponding week two years ago.

Stockholders of the United Biscuit company of America approved an increase in the common stock from 375,000 shares to 750,000 shares.

Directors of the British-American Tobacco company have recommended the distribution of one ordinary share and one deferred share in Tobacco Securities Trust company, Ltd., for each eight ordinary shares of British-American Tobacco stock. An extra dividend of $5 on common was voted by Lord & Taylor, New York department store company.

ord Oct. 29 may purchase one additional share at $50 for each four shares held. The new stock will pay $2 annually, which is equivalent to $4 on the present shares, which now pay $2 a year. New York, Oct. 16.—(Special)—To-day's stock market was another in-and-out affair.

Headed by a group of veteran leaders, the list started off in a buoyant mood. Several issues marched to new highs.

Then the buying enthusiasm gave way to heavy realizing that reached its peak in the last hour of trading. The close found at least as many losses as gains in the record. None of the losses was sufficiently serious, however, to cause any great alarm.

In view of the fact that there was nothing in the day's budget of news to inspire any great activity on either side of the market, the turnover was heavy, amounting to nearly 4,600,000 shares. Some of the buying enthusiasm was attributed to announcements of further "melon" plans by a number of companies and by forecasts of another group of dividend rate increases.

Money Rate Little Changed.

Little change occurred in the money market, the call rate holding at 7 1/2 per cent, its renewal rate, and time money continuing in abundance at unchanged rates.

Money Rate Little Changed.

Little change occurred in the money market, the call rate holding at 7 1/2 per cent, its renewal rate, and time money continuing in abundance at unchanged rates.

Big spots of the session were General Motors and Packard soaring to new highs, the former to 22 1/2 and the latter to 100 1/2, and United States Steel, which went to within a fraction of its previous high. Steel was hit by the profit taking wave toward the end, and the last sale registered a fractional loss for the day. General Motors also crumpled in the late trading, but was still nearly 3 points the gainer at the close of operations.

Half a dozen or so other standard issues marched in the wake of the motor leaders to new record levels. Among them were United States Industrial Alcohol, which went to 12 1/2; National Cash Register, which went to 9 1/2; 3 1/2 points; Union Carbide and Carbon, up to 19 1/2; and Victor Talking Machine, which touched 130 and then dropped to 127 1/2, leaving it with a net gain of 5 points for the session.

Oil Issues Prominent.

Oil issues were prominent toward the end, particularly Texas corporation and Marland. The first named closed at 70 1/2, up 3 1/2, and the other at 40 1/2, up 1/2 point.

Activity in the metal issues was another outstanding feature of the day. Most of the copper miners ruled strong throughout on the publication of reduced production figures for September. Calumet wound up at 45, up 1 1/2 points.

Montgomery Ward Up, Down.

Montgomery Ward stepped to a new high for a brief stay, but was singled out as a selling target in the later trading and finished the day at 22 1/2, up 1 1/2 points, on the stock melon announcement. Sears-Roebuck was also on the decline during the afternoon, the closing sale being at 17 1/2, off 3 1/2 points. Gold Dust corporation, following the expiration of rights, moved up during the early trading, but sold off later. A few of the rails made good showings, notably Central of New Jersey, which moved forward for a net gain of 6 points, and Kansas City Southern, which bettered its position by 4 points.

Radio Stocks Again Lead Trading For Chicago Mart's Day

Radio shares again were the principal feature of an irregular Chicago stock market yesterday. Zenith Radio shot up 5 1/2. Sonatone Tube jumped 6 points and Eria sold up 5 1/2. Raytheon dropped 1 1/2 on the statement from company officials that the earnings did not justify the price. Grigsby-Grumow was down 4 points and All American Mohawk declined 3 1/2. Utah Radio gained a point.

Willcox-Rich Preferreds "A" climbed 6 points and the "B" stock advanced 7 1/2. Kellogg Switchboard and Supply shot up 5 1/2 on rumors to the effect that the company had developed a television apparatus and that the company would be absorbed by the Radio Corporation of America.

National Standard advanced 4 points, Vorlonex gained 3 1/2, and Godchaux-Sugars closed 3 points up. Total preferreds finished 1 1/2 higher. Campbell, Wm. & Cannon Foundry was up 1 1/2 on reports that the company's third quarter earnings were equal to around $1.85 a share and that its first nine months earnings equaled $2.17 a share. Gains of a point or so were made by Kalamazoo Store and Atlas Stores. Atlas Stores reported ninth months' sales of $4,241,250, against $3,552,562.

Pines Waterfront sold off 5 points and Oakes "A" and "B" were off 1 point and 1 1/2, respectively. A. M. Castle closed 2 points higher and E. W. Warner, Henry Motors, and Bendix declined 1 1/2 each. Auburn Automobile lost 1 1/2 and Super Maid and Yates Machine were off 1 point each.

On small sales Great Lakes Dredge advanced 7 points. Beatrice Creamery advanced 2 points on announcement that the company will merge with the Hutchinson Ice Cream company of Des Moines, Ia.

BOND BANKERS TOLD TO STEADY FLOW OF MONEY

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 16.—(Special)—In his address at the seventeenth annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America here today, Henry R. Hayes, president of Stone & Webster and Blodgett, Inc., and president of the association, urged the bankers to aid in the stabilizing of the supply and demand of money.

"If the cost of long term money is permitted to fluctuate too violently," Mr. Hayes said, "the investor is penalized and the issuer is tempted to sell beyond his needs. When the cost is too high, the issuer finds too little demand for his securities adequately to finance needed expansion."

Rectifying the history of money since the federal reserve bankers lowered their discount rate to 3 1/2 per cent in 1927, Mr. Hayes said that this easing of money naturally caused a rise in bond prices, thus reducing inventories of investment bankers and also speeding up the emission of new issues.

"In the fall of 1927," he said, "conditions were so tight that our business was started on a basis of quantity production."

INSURES EMPLOYERS.

The 275 employees of the Chicago Board of Trade have been insured for $500 each against death or accident. The Board of Trade has taken out policies through the employee's preferential plan of the Travelers Insurance company.

CHICAGO MART WILD OVER RADIO, AUTO SUNDRIES

Speculators on the Chicago stock exchange, both amateur and professional, appear to have gone radio mad. In fact, trading hereabout in the radio and automobile accessory groups for some time has overshadowed all other issues.

The two groups have furnished the chief excitations in prices, with the honors going to the radio issues, several of which have exhibited swings ranging as much as 50 points in a day. It is a fast trading market and that is what speculators want, as profits and not dividends are sought these days.

Radios Again Lead Market.

The radio issues swung back and forth again yesterday, with Zenith again soaring nearly 19 points, while Raytheon was plunging down 1 1/2. Just to show what kind of a market it was, a summary of the day's trading shows that eleven radio issues had a total turnover of more than 97,000 shares, or more than a fourth of the total volume for all issues on the local exchange, which was 370,000 shares.

Just to show that speculation and fast action are sought regardless of everything else, the average price of these radio issues at night was more than $90 a share, while dividends being paid on them averaged about $1.33 a year and the average yield was less than 1 1/2 per cent. However, both the average dividend yield and the average price of these radio issues is reduced by the fact that several issues pay no dividends.

Grigsby-Grumow Is Leader.

The star performer has been Grigsby-Grumow stock, which was offered publicly last March at $10 a share. The price mounted rapidly in the next few months to 400, then the stock was split up on a 4 for 1 basis. And the new shares yesterday sold at 124, equivalent to 496 for the old stock. For the fiscal year ended March 31 the company earned $612,955, or $5.85 a share, but earnings for the four months ended Sept. 30 were equal to more than $20 a share, according to President B. J. Grigsby.

Zenith Radio also has performed spectacularly. The stock was sold publicly last February at $22 a share, but touched 219 yesterday. President Eugene F. McDonald reported yesterday that earnings for the three months ending Oct. 31 will exceed $300,000. The fiscal year begins May 1 and earnings for the first quarter were $136,000. These earnings for the first half of the present fiscal year will be equivalent to about $11.33 a share on the stock.

Sonatone Tube has followed the leaders. The stock was sold publicly last April at $22.50 a share but got up to 138 1/2 yesterday. Raytheon Manufacturing stock was offered in June at $27.50 a share and sold at $5 this week. Utah Radio Products stock was marketed in August at $17.50 a share, and since has sold as high as 65.

While these issues are comparative newcomers in the market, two of the older radio stocks recently have skyrocketed. All-American Mohawk this week sold at $32 1/2. The present company represents a combination of the All-American and Mohawk companies a few months ago. Before the merger All-American shares sold as low as 12 this year and as low as 4 last year.

One Shows Loss.

For the fiscal year ended March 31 the All-American company had a net loss of $169,930, but for ten months the Mohawk company showed net profit of $123,988. All-American stock was sold publicly in January, 1925, at $28 a share. Stock of the Electrical Research Laboratories yesterday sold at $54, compared with $4 early this year. The stock was marketed in November, 1924, at $23 a share. For the fiscal year ended March 31 the company reported a deficit of $31,256, while for the five months of the present year and up to Aug. 31 there was a deficit of $18,822.

WHEAT UP HERE, AT WINNIPEG, AND LIVERPOOL

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

There was no material pressure yesterday on the local wheat market. There were strength in Winnipeg and Liverpool and evidence of a better export demand. Commission house buying short covering also developed, hitting prices 10 1/4 c over the days inside figures.

The close was at net gains of 1/4 c. Winnipeg showed independent strength and gained 1 1/4 c for the day. Trade in corn was not large, but prices averaged higher on less favorable weather and on the strength in wheat and closed 1/4 c higher. Oats gained 1/4 c and rye 1/4 c.

Local traders who were good sellers on Monday were active on the buying side at these yesterday, and there was no pressure of consequence from the northwest. There were give-ups here on around 500,000 bu futures for seaboard wheat and on the strength in wheat and closed 1/4 c higher. Oats gained 1/4 c and rye 1/4 c.

Local traders who were good sellers on Monday were active on the buying side at these yesterday, and there was no pressure of consequence from the northwest. There were give-ups here on around 500,000 bu futures for seaboard wheat and on the strength in wheat and closed 1/4 c higher. Oats gained 1/4 c and rye 1/4 c.

Wheat Stocks Increase.

Recent developments appear to have little influence on the wheat market, and an increase of 35,000 bu for the week to bring in any selling of consequence, although the total of 115,000 bu was 115,000 bu in excess of last year. Liverpool closed 1/4 c higher, with a better demand for Manitoba, and old crop Argentine grain a factor. Good rains fell in parts of Kansas, which will be highly beneficial, while new and old storms in parts of Colorado and western Nebraska may delay the completion of winter wheat seeding.

Unsettled weather over the corn belt and the strength in wheat brought in the buying of corn futures, but the return was checked by profit taking and selling against offers, and the finish was at intermediate figures. While the seaboard intimates that there had been some export business put through, figures were not given. Country offerings were small, with the local spot basis steady.

December Oats Active.

Homes with northwestern and cash connections were buyers of December oats, and prices averaged higher. There was selling of May against purchases of December at 2 1/4 c difference. Trade in rye was light with the northwest on the selling side. Spreaders bought rye and wheat. A little export business was put through at the seaboard.

MEAT PRICES LOWER

For selling pressure on bellies and ribs, which any buyers, carried ribs of 56 1/2 c in the distant futures and bellies especially weak and 70¢ lower. Lard traded fairly active, the decrease in steps was no effect. Lard closed generally 56 1/2 c on October. Liverpool closed steady to 64 lower. Exports were 4,000, 5,000, while of bacon they were only 1,000 lbs. Cash trade was slow in meats of fat in lard. Deliveries of lard were 10,000 lbs. Ribs were 10¢ lower with arrivals largely a season of the previous week and last year. Prices follow:

NIGHTMARE

By GERALD MYGATT

SYNOPSIS.

Patricia Shaw is being entertained in one of New York's night clubs by Fanning Barker. She is annoyed by the leering stare of a hawk-nosed man on the opposite side of the room. At the table with the Hawk are a blonde, coarse-looking woman and a slight young man who appears to be drunk. The head waiter calls young Barker away from his table on a pretext, and as soon as he is gone the Hawk approaches Patricia and tries to engage her in conversation. The newcomer introduces himself as Jimmie Kirklin, and Patricia tells him that she thinks the hawk-nosed person had asked the head waiter to get rid of her escort. A fight ensues and Fanning Barker walks in on it. He pays the head waiter to restore order, and Patricia introduces Kirklin to him and then asks Fanning to take her home. A few minutes later, as Kirklin leaves the place with his companion, he is followed by a man on the street who appears to be drunk.

The hawk-nosed person, known as Bart Stoman, after taking the blonde woman home, makes for his secret hide-out, and there goes over a number of old newspaper clippings dealing with the disappearance of the fourteen-year-old daughter of Col. La Verry, who offers a million dollars reward for the safe return of the girl. Stoman glazes over the fact that the pictures of Sylvia La Verry resemble the girl he saw in the cabaret with Fanning Barker, except for a red birth mark shown in the pictures.

The next day, which is Saturday, Patricia and Jimmie spend the afternoon together, and then Patricia takes the evening train to her home in Far Harbor, Long Island, after Jimmie promises to come out to Far Harbor on Monday. Patricia goes to meet Jimmie at the end of the bus line on Monday and is bitterly disappointed when he doesn't appear. Jimmie, on leaving New York for Far Harbor, sees the hawk-nosed man talking to the blonde woman in the railroad station. He decides to follow her when she leaves the train with Jimmie, and she follows Jimmie from the station to the hotel at Spearhead. She is met by the man who followed Jimmie from the bus to Far Harbor he goes to the hotel at Spearhead, where he overhears the two plotting some mischief that he believes concerns Patricia.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

JIMMIE LEAVES SPEARHEAD.

Jimmie's uplifted hand proffered a five dollar bill, waving it encouragingly. The hotel clerk spat upon the floor.

"You city people!" he sneered. "Well, you can't bribe me, I'll tell you that. I won't take your dirty crooked money. Suppose the whole three of you get out of here—you first."

"Suits me," said Jimmie with a grin of relief. "Quicker the better. And by the way, that isn't dirty money. I dug it out of the ground."

"Yes you did!" raved the clerk. "I suppose you expect me to believe anything you tell me. That's a hot one. Any man that will say it's a joke again on his own wife—"

Said Jimmie with set lips: "She's no more my wife than you are. That's something for you to think about." He seized his bag and vaulted the counter.

"Come to think of it," said Jimmie, his eyes narrowing, "come to think of it, I have an idea." He flung his suitcase upon the floor, whipped it open with a snap. From its interior he drew forth a clearly laundered shirt. Then he selected two handkerchiefs, which he jammed into his coat pocket. One by one, meticulously, Jimmie removed the laundry pins from the shirt.

"Not clean! change your clothes down here," warned the clerk.

"Not going to," said Jimmie conversationally. "Different idea entirely."

He flopped his burden upon the bed.

He let me show you this shirt." He walked around the end of the counter and approached the clerk.

The latter must have sensed something, for he drew back.

"Just look at this material," said Jimmie politely. He took another step forward. Then he leaped. Two minutes later the clerk's eyes glared up at Jimmie from the floor. Tight between the teeth of the hotel employe was tied one of Jimmie's handkerchiefs. About his ankles was another. The shirt, sadly crumpled, was serving as a binding for a pair of wrists and forearms.

The clerk squirmed, but could do nothing else.

Jimmie observed the lobby, which was totally vacant of life. Then he stepped to the key rack, selected a key at random, stuck it into his pocket, and stood over the other man. Next Jimmie bent down, braced himself, grunted once or twice, and finally heaved the form of the clerk to his shoulder.

"Sorry," said Jimmie politely. "Got nothing against you, but you know too much. If there are duplicate keys on a number the room is empty—yes?"

He rounded the counter and trudged heavily up the stairs, found the room his key fitted, shoved open the door, and flopped his burden upon the bed.

"Do a better job now," said Jimmie, and he did. He tore the sheets into strips, he used the pillow cases as bags; he tied knots swiftly, and as a last precaution wrapped the blankets about the result. "You look like a surgical case," Jimmie remarked. "No, you don't; you look like a cocoon. Say, can you breathe all right?"

The other's eyes shot fire.

"Better answer civilly," said Jimmie. "I'm going to leave you anyway, and I want to leave you comfortable—that is, as comfortable as the circumstances warrant. Sorry to have to do this, but I don't quite trust you. Answer me now—wink twice with your right eye—can you breathe all right?"

Still the other's eyes shot fire.

So did Jimmie. "You answer me," he shot out. "Wink twice with your right eye. Can you breathe all right?"

The clerk closed both eyes tight, held them so.

Said Jimmie thoughtfully, "Maybe that means no." He peered at his quarry. "If I take your gas out so you can talk, will you promise not to yell? Promise on your word of honor? Wink twice if you promise."

The other winked twice.

Jimmie rolled his captive over on his face and unknotted the gag. Then he rolled him back and removed the handkerchief.

"Now what's on your mind?" Jimmie asked.

The other drew in a deep breath, expelled it abruptly in what was meant to be a loud shout for help. But the palm of Jimmie's right hand cut the call short.

"Nice baby," said Jimmie. "Well, when in Rome the idea is to do as the Romans do. Here, take back your silence, Jack, and I hope this time it hurts you more. When a man says 'yes' to me he means 'yes.'"

He suggested the man again, less gently than before. Then, after a final inspection of the bindings and blanket wrappings, he walked out of the door, locked it, went downstairs, and returned the room key to its place on the rack.

"In the movies," said Jimmie, "in the movies the birds who get tied up always untie themselves. Only in the movies they don't use a saddle cloth for arms and legs and they don't wrap 'em up in blankets and pull the whole works together with a diamond hitch."

He grinned at the empty lobby, walked around behind the counter again, opened the cigar case and helped himself to a pack of cigarettes. Where the pack had been he deposited fifteen cents, a dime and a nickel.

"The curse of honesty," he remarked to himself. He picked up his suitcase and walked out to the street, where he peered up and down the roadway and found what he was looking for, a sign announcing the presence of a garage.

"Now for Far Harbor," said Jimmie. "Gee, I certainly have an earful to spill when I get there—if I ever do get there ahead of the cops."

While Jimmie Kirklin for his own part was engaging in his brisk session with the clerk, the pallid little man of the speckled carpeted upstairs corridor and re-enters the room. He wore a feeble grin.

"We're a couple of damn fools," he announced to Queenie's interrogative stare. "Need a nurse, you and I do. Know what it was?"

"O, cut being kittenish," she snarled. "If you've anything to spill, spill it."

The little man eyed her.

"Spill it, I said," she repeated sharply.

He continued to eye her and spoke in a quiet drawl: "You know me well enough, kiddo, to know that I do things in my own inimitable way. And I don't like to be rapped at. Put that on your lipstick and use it gently." The woman, sitting upon the edge of the bed, leaned back wearily against a pillow and yawned. "O Gawd," she said. "Do it your own inimitable way then, Joe. Why are we a couple of damn fools? I'll bite." Or was it "Shakespeare wrote a play about it," the man reminded.

"Or was it 'Much Ado About Nothing.' Fits like somebody else wrote it? I don't know. Do you know what we got all worked up about—the powder on your nose. Do you know what we got all worked up about—"

And, I, a couple of wise ones off Broadway?"

"I said I'd bite," she countered, and yawned again.

"Seems my act's gone over big," said the little man genially. "No kidding. The show and all that." Now he laughed boisterously and added: "You know me, Queenie; you'll laugh, too. You and I got stuck in by a small town hick. He told me, 'You may have heard us just the same.' He preterested tartly.

"But he may have heard us just the same." "If you and I can't talk over a burg like this. Sild in next door and tried to get a thrill through the key-hole. Well, I fixed him, all right."

"How?"

"Told him I was Bart's secretary—that is, Stormin's secretary—and that you were Mrs. Stormin. Left him with his mouth hanging open a foot."

BY MAE TINEE.

Good morning!

That very dashing young gentleman, Mr. La Rocque, who married Vilma Banky, and the naughtily demure Miss Sue Carol, who hails from Chicago, would be pleased to have you step into the theater and see their new picture, which, I think they would tell you, they mightily enjoyed making and consider on the whole quite a nifty act.

It's a nice little piece with considerable sparkle and action, to be taken with a grain of salt—and most of us who see it introduce Mr. La Rocque as a popular and impetuous young man about town, who, before that, or in between that, he was probably impetuous and popular before he went to war as an aviator, and is now seen as a daring aviator, who some in France, saves the life of the dangerous German aviator, Von Stahl, rendering the latter eternally grateful.

Back in America Capt. Swagger runs into hard times—and Sue Arnold, who is also intimately acquainted with them, she being a cabaret dancer out of work—which you can quite understand after seeing her dance. The pair join forces and that is better, for Capt. Swagger is well known, and popular with managers as well as public. Holdups and pawlons and a misadventure of happenings finally throw Sue and Capt. Swagger into each other's arms for good and there you are folks, take it or leave it, and miss the film has been well directed and staged and stacks up as a light, bright program movie.

Rin Tin Tin in Talkie Is as Natural as Life Itself

"LAND OF THE SILVER FOX."

Produced by Warner Brothers. Directed by Ray Enright. Presented at the Orpheum theater.

THE CAST.

Rinty.....Rin Tin Tin
Marie Du France.....Lella Hyams
Gerald Crawford.....John Miljan
Carroll Blackton.....Carroll Nye
Brooks Nelson.....Tom Santucci
Squaw.....Princess Neola
Papoose.....Oceanania

"I am a very remarkable dog," Mr. Rin Tin Tin was saying as I entered the Orpheum theater, "and you will make no mistake by trusting me implicitly."

And he made those barks good in the picture which tells an exciting tale of a snow country and a girl and two villains—TERRIBLE villains—and a papoose who was supposed to have been killed in cold blood by—Heavens, I mustn't tell you that—but turns up healthy and noisy in time to prevent—something else that I mustn't tell. AND a hero. And some mounted spokesmen who almost get the wrong man. And an armful of silver fox furs.

Lots of material there, wouldn't you say? Yes indeed. Also some talking and a great deal of some of the most beautiful scenery you ever feasted your eyes upon.

All of which is just about plenty for you to know at the present moment, thinks this reporter.

O—about Rinty's voice? Charming! Deep, expressive—and Rinty, as you can readily suppose—makes every yip and howl and bark in the present instance is nothing short of marvelous and he is supported in elegant style by an A-1 cast of humans, two of whom, Carroll Nye and Lella Hyams, also have most pleasing voices.

See you tomorrow.

The Inquiring Reporter
Every Day He Asks Five
Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for The Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Rita Barrett, 831 Lill Avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you think a really nice, modest girl would appear on the street without her stockings?

The Answers.

Charles E. Ivins, 815 North 15th Avenue, Melrose Park, accountant—Yes. Years ago people thought it shocking for a woman to dress just a trifle beyond the conventional. A skirt slightly above the ankle was a scandal. Look at the contrast today. It is possible that the stockinged girl is a prediction of what women won't wear in the near future.

Miss Betty Janette, 1282 Granville Avenue, typist—I know that many girls would not do so, yet I don't believe that they should be condemned were they to do so. It is not considered good form, as yet; it is too conspicuous.

A. R. Treasurer, 7 South Dearborn Street, broker—Not a really nice and modest girl. She might be a nice girl, but not a modest girl. I do not approve of the stockinged nor the cigarette smoking girl. It will be another day than this when fathers and mothers will sanction their daughters' street appearance without stockings.

Miss Josephine Schueley, 5633 Kenmore Avenue, stenographer—Well, what do the men think about it? It is the men's opinion that ultimately wins in matters of women's dress. There are nothing wrong in going stockinged.

Eric Hjort, 7327 Champaign Avenue, clerk—Yes. Girls of today will do almost anything in the way of dress. That's their privilege. The stockinged girl is a little in advance of the times possibly, but they look all right to us.

English Helps
Opera 'Martha,'
for It's British

That Is in Scenes, Persons; Audience Likes It.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

By its nature, "Martha" is a piece to be given expert performance by the American Opera company. These young artists are astonishingly proficient in the art of comedy, both the stylized sort exhibited in Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" and the more naturalistic but still mannerly variety used in this work of the days of good Queen Anne.

So when it was revived at the Englewood last night another evening of subtropical temperature was entirely insufficient to depress the first rate performance of Cecile Sherman as Lady Harriet, of Brownie Peebles as Nancy, Charles Hedley as Lionel, Mark Daniels, and several others who appeared in lesser parts. The light, fine voices of the cast reacted most favorably on Plotow's melodies, and these, in spite of their age and previous condition of repetition, are still vital and full of juice.

The performance of the piece, though in the vein of comedy, manages to evade many of the farcical slapstick incidents that have been introduced from time to time. Howard Langman's story, "Strife," and Peter Chambers' "Strife," for instance, are played almost as straight characters. But much attention has been given to characterizations in the chorus; the market place scene was not the least an operatic chorus, but a market place full of country folk who could sing.

The English language helped considerably here as elsewhere in the performance.

Why Shut Father Out from the Care of His Own Baby?

By Sally Joy Brown.

"I am a widow and the sole support of my two growing boys who must be fed and clothed and sent to school. Sometimes it is very hard and you are the only one I can appeal to. Would your readers have suits, size 17 and 18; shirts, 15½ and 13½, and shoes, size 10, 11½ and 13½? You don't know how grateful I would be for these things."

"Have you ever let him try?" I asked.

"O, no—even when Sally was a baby she wouldn't stay with her father. She always wanted me."

I'm sure you can read between the lines without my help, though I happen to know all the variations on this particular case.

This father was always set aside when anything had to be done for the baby—he didn't hold him, or he let her bottle too hot or cold. When the child was 5 years old she had come to share her mother's and her aunt's attitude toward him—and very obviously, too.

Now, to be sure, it is true that many fathers are lacking in a strong paternal feeling. I can't be observing and not see that. But whether they have little or much it will be increased if they share in the intimate care of their children. In doing this both the children and the father are the gainers. Children feel closer to those who take the care of them, and those who take care are bound to their boys and girls by many more tendrils of affection.

Coarse Skin May Be Made Finer by Care in Its Cleansing

By Antoinette Donnelly.

Some skin authorities contend that you cannot do any more for the correction of enlarged pores than you can work the miracle of changing coarse hair into hair of finer texture, that like your bone formation and your coloring, you may as well take the coarse grained skin philosophically because you can't do anything about it.

Others agree that you can "refine" your skin just as you can refine your manners, should either happen to be in need of refinement. With the latter I cast my vote, because I have seen marked improvements in the texture of women's skins after a consistent effort with astringents and massages and great personal care.

Undoubtedly there are cases of exaggerated coarse skin that it would be most difficult to convert into a finer grain. But enlarged pores are so often due to wrong methods of cleansing the face that any troubled person may accept the premise that she can improve her complexion radically and go on and on.

For instance, people who wash their face in warm or hot water and rarely ever dash a bit of cold water on them are almost always prone to develop a coarse texture of skin.

For those open pores the best treatment is, after the warm water wash, to rinse the face in cold water to which has been added two drops of tincture of benzoin. I say the best because it

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Jessie, visiting her grandfather's farm, was especially interested in a pony that was used for driving cattle.

Watching her grandfather closely as he mounted the pony and placed his feet in the stirrups, she remarked: "I wouldn't mind driving the pony if I could reach the pedals."

Mrs. S. G.

One day while I was busy I sent my two little nieces out in the yard to play. Patsy, the younger, came to the door with an armful of toys and asked Shirley to open the door.

Shirley didn't answer her, so after calling for a while and getting tired, she cried, "Shirley, this is grandpa, open the door!"

is the most simply applied. But there are other astringents that are equally good. Alcohol is one. Witch hazel is another. Toilet waters and toilet vinegars are astringent because of their alcohol content. And then there are herbs and vegetable essences that are incorporated in reliable products for the special benefit of the individual whose pores can stand contracting.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Hot Apple Tea.

People whose digestive powers are weak or worn highly appreciate agreeable hot drinks as the cold weather sets in. These are quite as useful dietetically in autumn as in spring. In this age, when juices of fruits and vegetables are playing such a leading part, the fruit teas of many a type ought to be revived. Excellent as orange juice is it has no monopoly of its type of virtues.

There are various ways of making an apple tea which is dainty and more warm while for those people who are inclined to the tea with tea leaves, for many a meal, than it is. Here is my favorite apple tea or one of them: Wash and cut one good sized apple into quarters and then slice each quarter into four or more slices. Pour one cup of boiling water on this cut up apple and let it stand for two hours in a place where it will just steep, which place corresponds to the old fashioned side of the stove. A hot brick will do, and when much of the steeping is to be done it is worth while to use this old fashioned device on top of the stove. To keep it hot have one end over the gas burner turned low and the tea on the other end. Steeping is not so much liquid activity as simmering.

To finish this tea, strain it and add to the strained liquid one tablespoon of orange juice and a little sugar—just a bit of the latter—to get a delicious drink, one I consider cheerful and grateful, and as good for the well as for the sick. To make it more like a mulled drink put to sleep with the one apple six cloves and some slices of candied ginger. So spiced it may be used hot or cold, and it can be varied with lemon juice.

But suppose one has not been forward and started this tea, say, for a light luncheon, the base of which is some good bread. In that case one can get what is equal to a fruit soup and a hot tea combined by cutting up an apple and cooking it rapidly in as much water as it will flavor, or, at any rate, a little over one-half cup and then adding a tablespoon of sugar to the liquid. Or one may eat liquid and pulp as well, although many an apple that makes a good tea does not make a good apple puree or "sauce."

This hot apple liquid is excellent for the light luncheon eater and the elderly who need the comfort of hot liquids.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN AND CONSTIPATION

Thousands of people eat bran regularly for the healthful roughage it provides. It is a splendid practice. But be sure you are really getting all the roughage you need when you eat bran. Doctors say it takes 100% bran to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only accomplish part-way results. That is why they fail!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and crumbled. Just two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

You'll like the flavor and crispness of ALL-BRAN. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Mix with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Geo. H. High Returns for the Duck Season After Months Abroad

The moors of Scotland and the stag hunt at Pau have alluring appeal to Geo. H. High, but to one Chicago traveler they have not the irresistible drawing power of the Illinois marshes in October. Dispatches from Paris say that George Henry High, who with Mrs. High has spent several months in Europe, has deserted old country charms to come back home for the duck hunting season. No doubt, the possibilities of "shooting" the wild fowl in flight with a camera has a strong appeal for Mr. High, who is one of the cleverest amateur photographers hereabouts.

Mrs. High is remaining in Paris till the middle of November. The Highs' son-in-law and daughter, Commander and Mrs. Charles Dennistoun Burney of London, will spend the early winter on the Riviera, pending completion of an airship in which they propose to fly to America some time after the new year, when weather conditions are more favorable.

Inhabitants of the secluded byways of Lake Forest held a political rally on Monday evening, when they formed a "Smith for President" club. Mrs. Stanley Field was elected president, with four vice presidents as aids, Edwin D. Shumway, Hempstead Washburne, Mrs. Graham Aldis, and Frederick G. Wacker. Mrs. Clarence N. Goodwin was elected secretary; Robert S. McCrory, treasurer, and Albert Potter heads the following list of directors: John Coleman, Mrs. C. Edson Manierre, Stuart J. Templeton, John C. Hawkins, C. N. Goodwin, Mrs. Albert Potter, and others. The club has issued an invitation to Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, wife of the Democratic presidential candidate, to come to Lake Forest during her visit to Chicago this week. Other activities include a rally on Monday evening, Oct. 23.

Members of that sighed after group of young eligibles, the Chateaux, are crashing through a week from tomorrow night with what promises to be one of the best parties of the fall season. The engagement of one of their number, Adlai E. Stevenson Jr., to the daughter of the celebration, which will take the form of a dance at the new tavern club. Mr. Stevenson and his fiancée, Miss Ellen Borden, will occupy places of honor, as will Miss Beatrix Burns, whose marriage to Robt. H. Sanderford of New York takes place at the 27th, and Miss Eleanor Donnelly, who is to be married in December to the Rev. Pardee Erdman of Princeton, N. J.

Members of the Chateaux include a number of young bachelors, who for several years have occupied a cottage on Lake Forest for the summer season. The present roster includes Frederick S. Bailey, Clymer S. Bowen, William J. Loderbach Jr., J. Sanford Pitts, Adlai E. Stevenson, Carroll H. Sudler Jr., M. Ogden West, and C. H. Wilmerding.

Some twenty "alumni" members, who were former residents of the Chateaux, will be guests with their wives at the dinner preceding the dance. Many of the young married set in Lake Forest are included in the Chateaux's list of graduates, such as the Richard Bentleys, the Stephens H. Hords, the Wesley M. Dixons, the Lawrence M. Williams, and the Stuart Olives.

Society columns are supposed to be full of such a number of jolly things that mentioning illnesses always seems a little damp. But when one is able to report the return to health of such popular young matrons as Mrs. Aldis J. Browne and Mrs. G. Hall Roosevelt it is a pleasant notation. Mrs. Browne, who returned a fortnight ago with her handsome trio of children from her usual summer stay on Cape Cod, was immediately laid low with a bronchial affection and is not yet able to leave the house, though she is much improved. Mrs. Roosevelt has profited by the rest from political activities and is back from a short sojourn with doctors in time to perfect arrangements for her luncheon to the Judge Swanson Woman's organization.

Echoes of the visit to Paris of two of the north shore's most popular beaux, a bachelor and a benedict, bring a delightful account of the ease of trans-Atlantic telephoning, which proved not only pleasant but expensive to the single member of the expedition. Arriving home from a bit of Montmartre and Montparnasse one evening he had the inspiration to call a friend in Lake Forest. He got his connection almost immediately, and that's all there is, except the bill, which ran into three figures, 'tis told.

Mrs. E. L. Ryerson Jr., energetically working for the fashion show for St. Luke's hospital on Oct. 23 at the Stevens, telephoned yesterday to announce that the feature of such a revue, the brilliant procession, has been arranged through the fashion bureau of a State street store. Mrs. Lawrence Williams will be the svelte and blonde bride, and two of the season's most personal debutantes, Dorothy Ramsey and Barbara King, will attend her. Various costumes suitable to a bride's trousseau will be modeled by Mrs. William Mitchell Blair. Mrs. Loring Coleman, Mrs. Hale Holden, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham, and Mrs. C. Edson Manierre.

Frederick F. Norcross, father of two of Lake Forest's popular young matrons, Mrs. Richard B. Bentley and Mrs. Stephen E. Hord, has come into town for the winter and has an apartment at the Ambassador east.

Cermak Tells Plans for Nurses' Home; Project Up to Voters

Plans for the new $2,800,000 Cook county hospital nurses' dormitory were revealed yesterday by A. J. Cermak, president of the county board. The building is to be constructed, if the voters approve the bond issue which will be on the ballot at the Nov. 6 election.

Because of an agreement that the Illinois Training School for Nurses' home will become the property of the University of Chicago in December, 1929, a new nurses' dormitory must be built to take care of nursing requirements.

A committee has reported it considered a site immediately west of the county hospital as the most desirable location for the seventeen-story structure. This site will permit easy communication with the hospital through a tunnel, it was pointed out. Through condemnation proceedings this property may be acquired for approximately $100,000, the committee reported.

Robert T. Sherman to Wed Miss Jean Dawes on Oct. 31

Robert T. Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sherman, 1629 Judson avenue, Evanston, yesterday obtained a marriage license to wed Miss Jean Dawes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, 1800 Sheridan road, Evanston. They will marry Oct. 31 at the First Presbyterian church, Evanston. A reception at the Evanston Country club will follow, and the couple will leave for a honeymoon in the West Indies. Mr. Sherman is an attorney and a graduate of Princeton and the Harvard law school. Miss Dawes was graduated from Wellesley and is active in Junior league work.

Black Cire Satin Achieves Smartness

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondent.]—The fashion scene of today is gazing not at the crystal ball but at the crystal ball. In costume jewelry crystal makes an important contribution to a world of fantasy where colored glass, semi-precious stones, and modernistic designs make a choice of any one decoration a difficult chore. Never did costume jewelry run through a more bewildering range, and never was more reliance placed upon this detail as the perfecting touch of our toilettes.

Just think how much necklaces and bracelets may do for the evening gown. Especially is this true where the gown is in black or white or in some combination of the two tones. One remembers in this connection an imported model of white satin trimmed with black tulle. A beautiful model in itself, but how infinitely much it gained because its Parisian creator had chosen to combine with it a necklace and bracelets of red amber beads. These beads were very, very large, and incidentally, one must comment upon the vogue of stones and beads big enough for California itself to claim.

In the evening frock we illustrate today a similar impression is assigned to the necklace accompanying it. As we all know, the silver necklaces of antique and modernistic design is one of the ideals of the hour. We wear such necklaces both for daytime and evening, and the only difference struck by formality is in a more elaborate treatment. For instance, in this case the silver chain attains evening brilliancy through pendant of crystal and brilliant green stones. The smaller pendants prepare the way for a large motif of the same stones in the center.

The crystals of the necklace echo those employed as motifs on the cream lace which trims this model of black and white. As you are given a chance at crystal gazing in the buckles of the black satin shoes. No further ornamentation is necessary except that supplied by the bouffant hip drape and the pointed skirt.

Why Smoke, Says Doris, Unless You Really Enjoy It?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"My sister and I were invited to dinner at the D— hotel the other evening. After dinner the hostess offered cigarettes. Both my sister and I refused, at which all present seemed puzzled.

"These people with whom we dined are from Europe, where it is the custom for all women to smoke. But my sister and I were reared by very strict people, who would throw up their hands in holy horror at the idea of us smoking or drinking. We do not believe in drinking. Our dinner companions are high grade people. If smoking were common or vulgar I'm sure they wouldn't do it.

"What do you think of girls smoking, anyway? I mean just to be sociable—not to excess. A lot of girls would like to be enlightened on this subject—Peg and Beatrice."

While I don't think smoking is numbered among the seven deadly sins, nor included in the sins at all, why adopt a habit that you seem to be getting along quite nicely without? I don't think, really, it adds one iota to one's sociability. I never knew girl or woman who lost a friend because she didn't smoke. And in spite of the generosity of the practice it is observed that the girl who doesn't smoke comes in for quite a nice bit of approval. For instance, in referring to a young girl whose looks and conduct may be under discussion, it is commonplace to hear reference to the fact that she does not smoke. Which means that there still are reservations in honor of nice girls.

On the other hand, it would be a gross libel to suggest that there aren't nice girls who do smoke. But somehow I cannot be convinced that the average man, though he may offer a girl a cigarette and suggest something about its sociability and tell her everybody is doing it nowadays, still there's a little niche in his hall of preferred impressions that is appealed to by a cigarette the so-called sociable charm of the "weed" is gone and at the same time there is no doubt health inroads that affect the vital charm of a young woman.

Outside of the male interest, why, as I say, adopt a practice that may become a habit? Girls are so prone to become extremists in this connection. Many of them have become so. And when one gets to the point where she has to be continually reaching for a cigarette the so-called sociable charm of the "weed" is gone and at the same time there is no doubt health inroads that affect the vital charm of a young woman.

To Study Wild Birds.
Alfred M. Bailey, director of the Chicago Academy of Sciences' museum in Lincoln park, will leave Chicago today for Louisiana, where with the aid of Joseph Leiter he will spend several weeks making motion pictures of northern game and non-game birds that winter about Chateau Canard, the Leiter hunting lodge.

PATTERNS BY CLOILDE

(Reg. Accep. U. S. Patent Office.)

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

Aprons that are slipped on at a moment's notice are a great boon to many women, and one that is large enough to cover a "nice" dress is often a fine article to have. The deep armholes of this apron will never crush the sleeves of a dress, and it follows the chic sports mode with its plaid sides and envelope patch pocket. The front cuts in one piece, the back in two, and percale, chambray, sateen, or cotton broadcloth are attractive materials to use.

The pattern, 2590, comes in small, medium, and large sizes. The medium size requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material.

FARM and GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

The big apple crop being harvested in different sections of the country has made it necessary for growers to use great care in grading so that the best are packed for market and the culls are run through the cider mill. There are 8,483,000 more barrels of apples this year than last in the United States. One way of getting the maximum of high quality fruit which always is in demand is to go over the trees two or three times.

The plan of picking apples at least twice is recommended by Iowa horticulturists as a means of getting a big crop. H. H. Piagge of the Ames station says apples continue to grow even after they are ripe enough to pick. So he advises picking the largest apples first, leaving the smaller ones on the trees a couple of weeks. That gives them a chance to grow. This will materially increase the total apple crop.

Piagge knows of a grower who makes three pickings a year. He criticizes the old idea of determining the time to pick apples by the color of the seed and the taste. An apple with brown seed may not be ripe, because in some varieties, according to Piagge, the seeds turn brown a month before the fruit is ripe. Taste also is a useless method, he finds, because by the time an apple tastes good it is past the picking time and will not keep well.

If the apples are not sold soon after they are picked, store the good ones and use the others as soon as possible. Apples with bruises, insect stings, broken skins and punctures spoil quickly and can often be profitably made into sweet cider.

Those who do not know how to make and preserve sweet apple cider should write to the federal department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., for farmers' bulletin No. 1264, "Farm Manufacturing of Unfermented Apple Cider."

"I was afraid to smoke until I learned about Pebeco"

"I used to envy girls who smoked," writes Miss Elaine Brown of New York City, "but I was afraid to attempt it myself for fear it would stain my teeth.

"Not so long ago I noticed one of your advertisements recommending Pebeco Tooth Paste for smokers. I decided to give it a trial.

"I started to smoke and to use

Pebeco at the same time—and I am still enjoying both. My teeth, which have always been a source of pride to me, are whiter than ever before. Even after smoking, my mouth still feels fresh and clean-tasting.

"You can certainly count on me to spread the good news about Pebeco to all my friends."

THOUSANDS of girls who smoke are now welcoming this quick, easy way to keep their teeth sparkling white. Breath immaculate. Mouth sweet and wholesome. They use the tooth paste that's entirely different in formula—different in action from all other kinds—Pebeco.

In Pebeco there is a special ingredient that gently stimulates the saliva. At its sharp, cool taste your mouth feels invigorated—cleansed.

Ugly tobacco stains are quickly washed away. Breath stays sweet. Hours after you brush your teeth your throat and mouth keep deliciously moist and fragrant.

Pebeco polishes beautifully, too. Keeps your gums firm and pink. Use it twice a day.

Made by Pebeco, Inc., a division of Lehn & Fink Products Company. Sole distributors, Lehn & Fink, Inc., Bloomfield, N. J. Distributed in Canada by Lehn & Fink (Canada), Ltd.

Whether you smoke or not Pebeco will keep your teeth marvelously white and clean—safe from the acids of decay

Beginning November 8, Lehn & Fink Radio Program—every Thursday evening at 7, over Station KYW

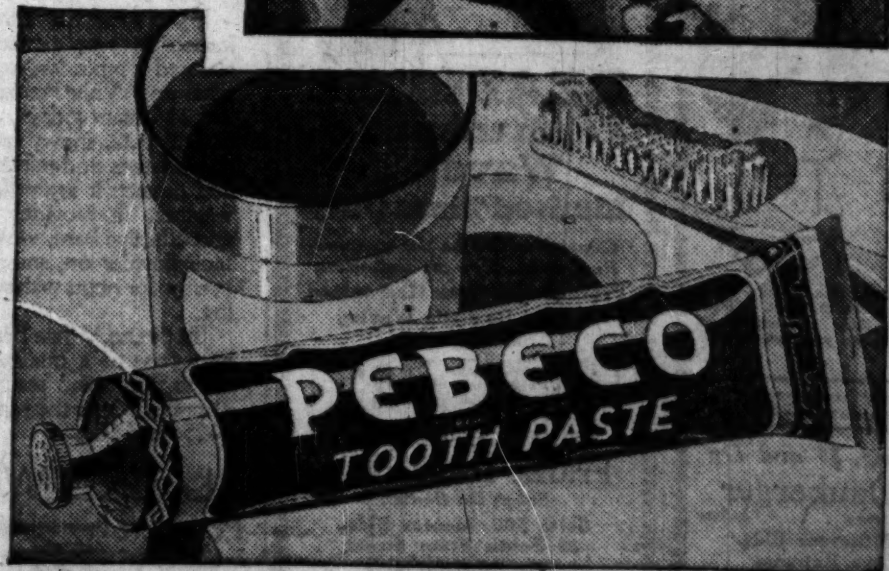

"Teeth in better condition than ever before" writes John S. Clarke of Chicago, Ill.

"Before I made the acquaintance of Pebeco my teeth were in very poor condition. They were constantly developing cavities and causing me no end of physical (and financial) pain. Not only that, but they were coated with a disgusting brownish stain—probably caused by tobacco, for I am an inveterate smoker.

"Three years of Pebeco have brought about a remarkable change. My teeth are in better condition than ever before, so my dentist tells me.

"And for the first time since I was a youngster I am not ashamed to open my mouth and smile."

Very truly yours,
(signed) JOHN S. CLARKE
